Scarlett! At last, after months of guessing, the much-sought Scarlett O'Hara role in "Gone With the Wind" has been given to an English actress, Vivien Leigh. She had prominent part in "Yank at Oxford." She is of French and Irish extraction like heroine of best-seller. PAGE 5

Cupid! Five-months-old Anthony DeLucca, shown in mother's arms, played the role of Cupid to reunite his father, Joseph, with mother, Thomasina, it was revealed today. All three are living together again in Lawrence. Father has been cleared of charges of attempting to abandon baby. STORY ON 3

HOUSE ANTI-ROOSEVELT REVOLT NOW HITS SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Democratic insurgency against the Administration's relief program spread to the Senate today after the rebellious House had lopped $150,000,000 from the appropriation asked by President Roosevelt to finance WPA for the next five months.

Leaders of the Senate's economy bloc predicted the $725,000,000 fund voted by the House would win Senate approval, probably late next week, despite the President's request for $875,000,000.

The House passed the relief bill last night, 397 to 16, after an informal coalition of Republicans and many Democrats had reduced its amount and incorporated prohibitions against political activities in the WPA.

AWAIT REACTION

This first major legislative action in the new Congress was interpreted widely as evidence that the election-strengthened Republicans, working with a substantial bloc of Democrats, might curtail other phases of the President's spending program.

Leaders awaited signs of the country's reaction, however, before venturing definite predictions.

Roosevelt had advocated that the appropriation be made without strings and that Congress take further time in which to work out legislation against politics in relief.

Instead the House wrote these provisions into the measure:

That none of the money should be used to pay WPA officials and administrative employes under civil service—this to forestall a presidential order blanketing thousands of them into the civil service Feb. 1.

ALIENS BARRED

That for the same or comparable work in different states the WPA could not vary relief wages more than 25 per cent.

That none of the money could be used to pay salaries or benefits to any official or beneficiary who tried to influence the vote of a WPA Work. This amounted to a statement of policy, since no elections are scheduled in the five-month period.

That no relief funds be paid to aliens.

That the WPA reverse a recent order and continue on work relief men and women over 65.

That the Farm Security Administration be prevented from using any of the money to establish hosiery mills on federal homesteads.

Chairman Adams (D.) of Colorado announced a Senate appropriations subcommittee would begin hearings on the bill Monday morning.

Chairman Byrnes (D.) of South Carolina and his unemployment committee have worked out a program for distributing WPA funds under rules laid down by Congress instead of authority delegated to the administration.

1 Dead in Snow, 3 Girls Injured

The east's severest snowstorm of the year struck here with diminishing fury today, after causing one death in South Attleboro and burying southern parts of the State under eight inches of snow.

The South Attleboro storm victim was Joseph Vernier, 66, of Central Falls, R. I., who slipped and fell as he left the factory where he worked. His skull was fractured.

Three Girls were injured, one seriously, when their automobile skidded on an ice road and struck a stonewall in Tyngsboro.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

The most severely hurt was Miss Carolyn Rogers, 22, of Medway. Also injured were Miss Louise Macklin, 23, of Waltham, and Miss Matherine Disken, 21, of Concord. Miss Rogers was removed to Memorial Hospital, Nashua, N. H.

Throughout New York, Connecticut and in most of southeastern Massachusetts snow was piled eight inches deep and still falling.

Air travel was at a standstill throughout the East, while highway travel was halted by deep drifts in southern Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and other states.

The heaviest of the storm forked out to sea south of Cape Cod, with Boston escaping the brunt of it. Little or no snow fell in New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine.

THOUSANDS DIG OUT

Heavy snow fell throughout the night in Rhode Island, where highway crews battled to keep roads open at Providence, Woonsocket, Pawtucket, Central Falls and Newport.

With snow still falling, more than 1000 men and 400 trucks were at work at Hartford in removing an eight-inch fall. The rest of Connecticut was similarly hit.

New York City experienced its greatest snowfall of the season—eight inches. The regular snow-

9-Inch Fall Perils Cars

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14 (AP)—Snow, rain and sleet combined today to make traveling on New Jersey highways a risky undertaking.

Weather bureau officials reported a fall of 9.4 inches here, a record for this winter.

6 INCHES IN PENN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14 (AP)—Snow lay today six inches deep over most of Pennsylvania. Highway traffic was slowed, although all roads were kept open.

SNOW BLANKETS N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Freezing temperatures and a heavy fall of "lightweight snow" blanketed most of upstate New York today and slowed traffic. Hardest hit was Buffalo, where the fall ranged from five inches to more than a foot.

Salamanca had nine and one-half inches, Ithaca six, and Binghamton 7.3 inches.

WIDOW BURNS TO DEATH

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Burns, 84, a widow, burned to death in her home today when a candle ignited her clothing.

France, Britain To Move Fleets; Fear New Crisis

PARIS, Jan. 14 (AP)—The French navy today ordered three submarines to Syria, where rioting against French rule has broken out, while France's Mediterranean and Atlantic fleets made ready for extensive war games off Africa's northwestern coast.

The maneuvers will coincide with the regular spring cruise of the British home fleet in the Mediterranean. Although they were announced December 21, the French maneuvers were regarded as an impressive aftermath of the Chamberlain-Mussolini talks in Rome, largely concerned with the Mediterranean and Spain.

French spokesmen maintained today that the Rome talks came to nothing.

The French and British naval moves, it was pointed out, will provide an imposing display of the seapower of the two democracies in waters involved in their current issues with Italy.

The British fleet leaves its home ports Tuesday. Next day the French Mediterranean fleet will leave Toulon and the Atlantic fleet will steam from Brest to combine in the Atlantic off French Morocco.

SAIL FOR SYRIA

The three submarines are to sail from Toulon also Wednesday for Beirut, chief port for Syria and Lebanon, which are restless under the French mandate.

Syrian nationalist agitation for immediate separation from French rule led to a series of clashes in Damascus and other towns last night and today in which at least 21 persons were injured.

Four thousand students demanding immediate independence paraded through Damascus today. All schools were closed. A meeting of nationalist students in the village of Douma last night ended in a shooting affray.

(France in 1936 made treaties promising Syria and Lebanon independence in 1939, but has not ratified these pacts. Because of disturbed Mediterranean conditions she now intends to revise them and keep a military and naval foothold in Syria.)

ISSUE GAMES ORDER

Detailed orders were issued today for the French navy's war games, which will cover a wide area in the middle Atlantic and will last until March.

At the same time it was announced that General Maurice Gamelin, chief of staff of national defense, would leave Thursday for an inspection of coastal defenses in Algeria and French Morocco.

e will be accompanied by Rear-Admiral Jean Darla, chief of staff of the navy.

QUEEN WILHELMINA

Lay Holland Crisis to 'Slingshots'

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 14 (AP)—Police guards were posted around homes and offices of German officials in the Netherlands today although an attack on a German-occupied building for which Nazi papers angrily blamed Jews gave evidences of being only a "slingshot crisis."

The police details were ordered following German diplomatic representions and Nazi press clamor over alleged "bullets fired into Nazi buildings by Jews" in refuge here.

But Netherlands detectives, after long investigation, believe that the "mysterious bullets from ambush" were nothing more than pebbles from the sling-shot of a mischievous boy.

A government statement said it was almost certain that a hole in the window of an Amsterdam residence occupied by a German official was made by a stone.

A second incident in the Hague, the statement said, involved a shot fired through a window of a house next to the German legation—"a house, part of which was used by the legation without bearing any outward sign denoting its special character as such."

Stocks Higher In Active Trade

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Leading stocks put on an early rallying show in today's market, gains ranging to $1 a share or more in most departments. Trading was fairly active.

Prominent on the rise were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, North American,

Firemen Rescue 14 Men From Elevator

Fourteen men breathed sighs of relief today after they were rescued from a locked elevator between the second and third floors of a Summer street building.

The elevator operator was taking down 13 patrons of a billiard parlor in the building when a fuse blew out. Automatically, the elevator locked.

Young Wife Loses Kaler Will Fight

Climaxing a bitter court battle, Harold V. Kaler of Foxboro today was the victor over his step-mother, attractive Margaret Callahan Kaler, who was named sole heir in the will of the late John T. Kaler, well known Boston insurance official.

Informer that Judge Joseph R. Mccoola had disallowed the will, Richard J. Cotter, attorney for the son, declared his client would petition to be named administrator.

WED FIVE YEARS AGO

Young Kaler had been left only the "regard and affection" of his father in the will, which bequeathed an estate estimated at $75,000 to the 35year-old widow. The insurance executive had married her five years ago when he was 63 years old.

Son and step-mother waged a long, bitter battle over the will in Norfolk Probate Court. Mrs. Kaler had sought to be named executrix.

Young Kaler testified he had always been on the best of terms with his father until the latter, senior partner in the firm of Kaler, Carney, Liffler & Company, married for the second time.

WHEELBARROW SIGNAL

From then on, he testified, he only saw his father when he knew his stepmother was away. The signal that "the coast was clear" was a wheelbarrow placed under an apple tree in the front yard of his father's Sharon home, according to his testimony.

Mrs. Kaler testified her husband was a lonely man before he met her and that the only thing that marred his happiness was the dislike evidenced toward her by his son.

Pens Suicide Note in Quincy

Save Banker's Wife Overcome by Gas

"Gentlemen:
"By the time you receive this letter, I will have committed suicide . . .
(Signed) Lillian C. Thorne,
44 Edgemere Road, Quincy."

The above communication was received by the city editor of the Boston Evening American today.

But Mrs. Thorne, 40-year-old wife of Carl H. Thorne, Court street, Boston, banker, was not dead.

She was in Quincy City Hospital, suffering from illuminating gas poisoning.

Doctors said she would recover.

Police reported that they had been called to the Thorne home and had found Mrs. Thorne in the kitchen, overcome by gas.

Her husband is vice-president and director of a Boston bank.

After being given first aid by police, Mrs. Thorne was rushed to the hospital, where further methods of resuscitation were employed.

For several hours her condition remained serious, but she was finally pronounced out of danger.

At the time her letter was received by the city editor of the Boston Evening American, a reporter had just telephoned from Quincy, saying she was resting comfortably.

Police declined to make pubic public the circumstances under which her collapse from gas poisoning occurred.

A family doctor said Mrs. Thorne had ben ill recently and had been suffering from moods of despondency.

Nickel Loot Totals Up To $250,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—The disappearance of 5,000,000 nickels—that's $250,000 in round figures—was under investigation today by the city transportation board which charges they were stolen from the City Subway last year.

The "tap," the board said, had been accomplished by collectors and accomplices turning back the turnstile meters every day—but not enough to arouse suspicion—and pocketing the difference.

Seventeen em ployes have been suspended pending an inquiry.

Find 'Poison Ring' Witness Beaten

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14 (AP)—George Myers, 35, chief witness in an investigation of a three-state "poison ring," was found bound and beaten here today, just a week after he had received threatening letters.

Parents United By 'Unwanted' Baby's Smiles

LAWRENCE, Jan. 14—An "unwanted" baby, police called chubby, chuckling, little Anthony DeLucca, not so long ago.

They were going to have the law on Dad Joseph DeLucca, charging that he loved a pet monkey better than he did his own son.

But Baby Toni fooled 'em all.

He demonstrated what many a parent could have told well-meaning but blundering authorities.

He demonstrated that a baby's dimpled smile, a baby's tiny, pink, clutching fingers have more power than all the Commonwealth's couris and cops and cumbersome legal machinery.

ALL HAPPY AGAIN

Little five-months-old Tony, his young and pretty girl-mother, Mrs. Thomasina DeLucca, and Daddy Joe DeLucca were happily reunited today.

Living cosily together, they were looking forward to a future rosy enough to make up for past troubles.

Dad DeLucca's pet monkey, once the cause of bitter family quarrels, was gone and forgotten. A relative, in a distant city, took him.

"We are blissfully happy," Mrs. DeLucca confided at the home of her parents in Lawrence, where she and her husband are staying.

MONKEY IS FORGOTTEN

"Joe hasnt got a job yet, but he is raising a mustache. "As for that monkey—we never talk about him."

Mrs. DeLucca said she and her husband were reunited a day after their court battle.

She credited her lawyer, William Malone, and her husband's cousin, Anthony Longo, of Paterson, N. J., with an assist in bringing the reconciliation about.

Court charges, formerly hanging over Dad DeLucca's head, were scratched off the book for god and all.

The Essex county grand jury, ready to hear alleged evidence against the 21-year-old father, was told Mrs. DeLucca, herself only 16, had refused to testify.

BABY'S SMILE WINS

There was nothing for police and the district attorney to do but admit baby Tony had beaten them to the punch.

He'd done his stuff as a peacemaker and home-protector more speedily and efficiently than they could.

He couldn't—or wouldn't talk for publication.

But he smiled that dimpled smile of his.

He waved those pudgy, potent fists.

And his wife, brown eyes turning approvingly from adoring Mummy DeLucca to slightly sheepish but wholly subjugated Dad DeLucca—had an unmistakable light in them.

A light that said, plain as words: "Look what I've done."

A 'Step-on-It' Speed Law

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 14 (INS)—Connecticut—a paradise for speed demons and purgatory for "Sunday drivers" who take their families sightseeing.

Such would be the effect of a bill on file today in the legislature in Hartford, "insurance capital" for more than 40 insurance companies whose maxim has been "safe and sane driving."

Introduced by Representative Bernhard H. Mathies, Seymour Republican, the bill would set a minimum speed of 70 miles an hour on the Merritt parkway, superhighway linking Connecticut with New York, and a 60-mile minimum on all other state roads.

The present maximum speed limit is 45 miles an hour.

The social and economic consequences of such a bill are terrific.

Imagine the chagrin of John Doe Ambling along the highway in his jalopie at top speed of 45 miles an hour being arrested for going to slow!

Imagine the difficult of the tough traffic cop who has been used to bawling out drivers for speeding it necessary to change his technique in arresting slow drivers.

Without a doubt some of the tougher ones would be fired for incompetency for being unable to change their technique.

If the law were enforced, there would be a spurt to business. Connecticut would become a market for at least 100,000 new cars to replace those that cannot attain a speed of 60 miles an hour.

You could go on with suppositions indefinitely, or perhaps until the legislature kills the bill before it kills most of us.

MUSSOLINI PLEDGES HIS AID TO JEWS

Italian Parley Fails to Settle Other Problems

ROME, Jan. 14 (AP) — Premier Mussolini agreed in his talks with Prime Minister Chamberlain to cooperate in the world effort to solve the Jewish refugee problem, British circles disclosed today.

This was seen as the sole concrete achievement of the visit, although the Fascist press asserted it had "opened the way" to new European and Mediterranean equilibrium.

In a statement to the Italian press before his departure Chamberlain declared he was "more than ever convinced of the good faith and good will of the Italian government" and that his visit would prove fruitful "for European collaboration."

REALIZED OBJECTIVE

Chamberlain said he had not come to Rome for specific accords "but rather to obtain through personal contacts more intimate understanding of the points of view of the two countries.

"That objective has been fully realized," he said.

The British prime minister was represented as convinced Il Duce was willing to help in finding new homes for Jews.

President Roosevelt's views on the issue were believed to have been touched upon.

Spain was the only other subject discussed at length, British sources said. But all that Chamberlain was able to obtain from his host on this score was Il Duce's "willingness" to abide by the non-intervention committee agreement for withdrawal of foreign troops from the civil war.

ISSUES UNSETTLED

There was no evidence, however, that Mussolini had promised to cease aiding Generalissimo Francisco Franco before the end of the present insurgent offensive against Barcelona, which both Il Duce and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano assured their British guests would soon end in victory.

Nothing concrete was decided regarding the French-Italian differences over Tunisia, Djibouti, the Djibouti-Addis Ababa Railway and the Suez Canal, it was said.

Chamberlain was represented as appreciative of Italy's increasingly important role in the Mediterranean, but there was nothing to show that he had—as the newspaper Il Messaggero said—recognized Italy's "imperial parity" with Great Britain.

British circles said there was "no discussion" of Fascist claims on France.

MERLE OBERON

Because she was born Friday the 13th, five minutes past midnight, tiny Margie Burt's mother, Mrs. Mary Burt, was the LUCKY owner today of a beautiful bassinette—the gift of Merle Oberon and Gary Cooper.

The screen stars sent Mrs. Burt a congratulatory telegram at City Hospital. Merle and Gary are starring in "The Cowboy and the Lady," due at Loew's State and Orpheum beginning Thursday, January 19.

Furthermore, the mother is doing well and the baby one of the healthiest hospital authorities have seen.

Lucky! Lucky!

BORN on Friday the 13th, Margie Burt will receive a bassinet from Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Burt, was so informed today at City Hospital. Cooper's birthday falls on the same day.

American Jailed By Nazi Court

HAMBURG, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP)—George Joseph Roth, a naturalized United States citizen and former steward on the United States liner Washington, was convicted today of preparation of treason and sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Roth was charged with possession of a newspaper of communistic sympathies printed in Le Havre, France. He testified that he did not know the paper was communistic.

The court in imposing sentence said:

"Germany through international treaties has the right to protect herself through safeguarding measures. The court is of the opinion the defendant was fully aware he possessed a newspaper of communistic tendencies directed against Germany."

Max Denies Nazi Clash

BERLIN, Jan. 14 (INS)—Reports published by the London Daily Mirror that Max Schmeling is "in difficulties" with the Nazi authorities met with an emphatic denial today from the former heavyweight champion himself.

With his wife, the blond Anny Ondra of film fame, Schmeling attended a fight program at the Berlin Sports Palast.

The London Daily Mirror story hinted that Schmeling and his wife had been questioned by Nazi authorities as a result of a remark alleged made by the fighter about Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Franco's Men Take Air Base

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 14 (AP)—Insurgent troops, driving toward Barcelona and the Mediterranean, today reported capture of Valls, important government air base only 12 miles from the seaport of Tarragona.

Government lines were said to have broken and thousands of militiamen started falling back toward the coast as three insurgent columns converged on Tarragona.

Anti-Red Group Greets Hungary

BERLIN, Jan. 14 (AP)—Nazi newspapers jubilantly welcomed Hungary to membership in the German-Italian-Japanese anti-Communist pact today while the semi-official mouthpiece of the German foreign office took a thrust at the United States.

The Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, the mouthpiece, declared that "the Communist menace in the United States is one of the major perils threatening the world today."

It predicted that Hungary's affiliation with the pact would "exert a powerful force of attraction upon other similarly-minded states, large and small."

Paraguay Halts Refugee Trek; 300 Stranded

MONTEVIDEO Uruguay Jan. 14 (AP)—Three hundred Jewish refugees were stranded here today—apparently unable to return to Germany and Italy whence they came or to proceed to Paraguay their destination because of a change in immigration regulations.

President Alfredo Baldomir called a special cabinet meeting for Monday to study the plight of the refugees who disembarked yesterday from the Italian liner Conte Grande having learned that the Paraguayan government suddenly had cancelled all immigration permits.

(A dispatch from Paris said the Paraguayan diplomatic staff there was awaiting instructions from Asuncion regarding an investigation into alleged traffic in false passports for Jewish refugees.)

The would-be immigrants spent their first night in the western world in various hotels boarding houses and homes of Jews here. Most of them are fairly well off.

It was believed the Uruguayan cabinet on Monday would relax recently adopted measures whereby Uruguay disclosed an unwillingness to accept Jewish immigrants. The reason why Paraguay—which seeks manpower, farmers and technicians—cancelled the visas was not disclosed.

Most of the refugees came from Germany and Austria. A few from Italy. They embarked at Genoa.

Leni Excuses Filmland Snub

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14 (INS)—"I hope next time it will be different," was the farewell to Hollywood of Leni Reifenstahl, German movie star and close friend of Adolf Hitler, when she departed today for Berlin.

"It was because of what was printed in the newspapers that made it impossible for people to speak to me," the actress-film producer said in commenting on the chilly reception accorded her visit to Hollywood.

"The stars, some of them, would have been nice, I know, but after what was printed they could not."

War Ovah, British 'Lee' Scarlett

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14 (AP)—Vivien Leigh, the young English actress who will play the part of the southern lass, Scarlett O'Hara, in the screen dramatization of "Gone With the Wind," was "terribly nervous" today, but at the same time "grateful beyond words."

She was signed to the role last night for which a host of actresses and socialites have been mentioned. Today she was still a little bewildered, but full of determination to make a success of the most discussed feminine part in motion pictures in years.

CLARK GABLE

Miss Leigh—who pronounces it Lee—confided that she had looked forward to sitting in an audience and watch "Gone With the Wind" unfold on the screen.

"I came over here on a holiday, little dreaming I would be so terribly lucky," she said with a smile. "I am grateful beyond words at the tremendous confidence placed in me, and my fondest ambition is to make good.

Producer David O. Selznick, announcing the choice, said he had kept his original promise "to cast a girl who was not identified in the minds of the public with other roles, and who was a physical counterpart of the original Scarlet."

Scores of actresses and non-professionals were considered for the part, talent scouts searching in all parts of the country, especially the South.

Even early this week Paulette Goddard and Jean Arthur were considered strong contenders.

Olivia DeHavilland is scheduled for the role of Melanie.

Clark Gable will be Rhett Butler, Leslie Howard will be Ashley Wilkes, Scarlett's first great love.

Miss Leigh, comparatively new to American audiences, has had leads in English stage plays and has played in the British films "Fire Over England," "Storm in a Teacup" and "A Yank at Oxford."

She was born in Darjeeling, India, November 5, 1913, and schooled in Paris, London, Switzerland, Italy and Germany.

She is married to Leigh Holman, London barrister, and they have a five-year-old daughter, Suzanne.

Deny Stolen Smoke Bars Jail Pardon

It's not just a puff of smoke—inhaled 27 years ago in violation of rules—which may lock Raymond Plouffe, 53, forever within the walls of State Prison.

Such was the declaration of Ralph Rogart, chairman of the State Parole Board, today as Supreme Court Justice Arthur W. Dolan took under advisement a petition to win the "lifer's" freedom.

He now is serving 18 years to life for manslaughter.

According to Robart, the parole board "feels reasonably sure" that Plouffe committed another serious crime in New York, for which he never was tried.

Plouffe now has served the minimum of his term for manslaughter in causing the death in 1910 of Henry Stone of Newburyport.

Arguing against his freedom was Assistant Attorney General Roger Clapp, who declared the Parole Board has not the right to grant a pardon because Plouffe violated the smoking rules and spent one day in solitary confinement shortly after he was admitted.

Murray in Battle To Head Council

City Councilor George A. Murray of South Boston today stepped into the fight for the presidency of that body with the withdrawal of Councilor James E. Agnew of Brighton.

Agnew had for several weeks been deadlocked 9 to 9 with Councilor William J. Galvin of Charlestown.

State Dental Care Offered

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 14 (AP)—Utah's State Dental Association, following in the steps of the Utah Medical Association, announced today a plan to provide dental work for any adult at an average cost of $10 a year.

Dr. E. W. Lambert, chairman of the committee which perfected the dentists' plan, said the new system was designed to enable the 75 per cent of the population receiving no dental care at all to obtain proper oral health protection.

The Utah Medical Association recently inaugurated a somewhat similar system of minimum-cost treatment and hospitalization for low-income groups.

Sharecroppers Forced to Move

NEW MADRID, Mo., Jan. 14 (AP)—Acting under orders of the state health commissioner, the Missouri state highway patrol moved today to break up a demonstration of more than 1000 sharecroppers occupying snow and rain-soaked camps along two major highways.

After a survey of the camps by Dr. Harry Parker, state health commissioner, Colonel B. Marvin Casteel, superintendent of the highway patrol, and Captain A. D. Sheppard of the patrol, Dr. Parker announced the situation "constituted a menace to public health."

ORDERED TO MOVE

State police were instructed to remove the men, women and children, forcibly if necessary.

Colonel Casteel said he expected no trouble in carrying out the order.

"They are going to move," he declared. "They can't stay here because of the possibility of an epidemic."

Landowners, Casteel said, have agreed to permit sharecroppers who originally tenanted their farms to return.

Those who could not prove they were tenant farmers in this area were to be taken to a government building at Charleston and turned over to county authorities.

FOOD ALMOST GONE

For the last two nights, snow, rain and near-freezing temperatures have added to the families' suffering. Rations of food have been meager.

Crudely improvised shelters have been their only protection against wind and rain.

Reardon Drafts Ouster Defense

Determined not to resign under fire, Education Commissioner James G. Reardon readied a defense today against charges to be pressed Tuesday at ouster proceedings before Governor Leverett Saltonstall.

Meanwhile, the Governor declined to reveal specific charges against the educator, although observers were certain the chief executive relies on a report on hurricane repair work by Attorney-General Paul A. Dever.

The Dever report charged that $360,000 of contracts awarded for work in the department were invalid because the work was not necessary as a result of the hurricane or flood.

Announcement of the hearing Tuesday came after Commissioner Reardon had been summoned to the governor's office and conferred briefly. In answer to Saltonstall's request for resignation, Reardon declared he would not quit, and asked for a public hearing.

JOHN BARRYMORE'S "CHINESE TENEMENT"
"For Sale" Sign Nailed on Door

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 14 (AP)—"That Chinese tenement," as John Barrymore now scornfully refers to his $448,000 hilltop mansion, will be offered for sale at auction this afternoon.

"And no regrets," says the actingest of the acting Barrymores. "Frankly, it was kind of a nightmare, but it might appeal to somebody — maybe some actor."

There are two houses on the five-acre estate, connected by—this is John's description—"a sort of Turkish pergola." There are two garden houses, a skeet range, a bowling green, three swimming pools

FALLY LITTLE TROUT

"Yep, three pools," John confesses. "Incredible, isn't it? In one of them I used to keep rainbow trout. Kept 'em alive for two years and personally fed 'em. The little guys got to know me."

The main house has a music room, illuminated by an $8500 chandelier John bought in a weak moment from an Austrian archduke, an old English tavern equipped with a bar he picked up in Alaska, a wine cellar, a nursery, half a dozen large bedrooms and quarters for a dozen servants.

When Barrymore first came here he spied the hilltop house from the garden of Pickfair, where he was a guest of Douglas Fairbanks.

HERE'S JOHN'S STORY

It then was the honeymoon home of Eleanor Boardman and King Vidor. Here's John's story:

"'Wonderful up here, isn't it?' I said to Doug. 'So like Austria.'

"I could speak freely, because I'd never been to Austria. He said, 'Yes, indeed,' and he could speak freely, too. So I sent my business manager up to buy the place.

"He didn't like anything about the house except the view. Consequently, he beat down Vidor's price something awful.

"I got the house for just about nothing at all. Vidor and I had a good laugh—and a drink or two on me—afterwards."

Love Duels Absent On Treasure Cruise Declares Countess

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, International News Service
(Copyright, 1939)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14 — The Countess Di Frasso hasn't lost her sense of humor even with all those harrowing tales of piracy, love duels and mutiny below decks reported to have taken place on the good ship Metha Nelson.

Dorothy stopped in today to have a cup of tea and her account of the search for the legendary buried treasure on Cocos Island was related in the amusing manner that has made her one of Hollywood's most famous raconteurs.

FOUND ANTS, RATS

"Instead of finding treasure, we found millions of red ants and huge rats bigger than 'Miss Moffet,' my dog, swarmed over the island. And at night cocoanuts dropped on the roof so loudly that we thought we were being bombed."

"What about Ben Siegel?" I asked her, "the handsome lad the newspapers say was your favorite escort on this troubled journey?"

"Ben is one of my closest friends," replied Dorothy, becoming serious for a moment. "But as for romance, it's absurd. He has a wife and I have a husband and any other interpretation is utterly ridiculous. Ben wasn't with us when the boat nearly capsized and we were rescued by the Italian ship Cellina."

"ONLY A FRIEND"

"And what about your other escort, Richard Gully?" I asked.

"He is a friend. He was on the boat during the entire voyage and faced danger with us when the Metha Nelson lost her sails and almost capsized.

"Why does everybody start romances about me with every friend or acquaintance I have in the world?" asked Dorothy. "Since our return, the story was taken on the flavor of a dime novel with the color of a 'Desperate Desmond' or 'Billy the Kid.'"

"Or 'Mutiny on the Bounty,'" I suggested.

DIDN'T SEE 'MUTINY'

"If there was mutiny, I didn't see it," said Dorothy, "and I can hardly believe any such thing took place. The only shooting I saw was at a shark on my line which almost pulled me overboard.

"I saw no blood spilled, no duels fought," went on the vivacious Dorothy. "The treasure hunt eventually turned out to be a side issue, with most of the time spent fishing, swimming and visiting foreign ports."

U. S. Flood Aid Won't Be Forced Upon Vermont

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (INS)—The federal government stepped out of the raging controversy over projected flood control plans in Vermont today when President Roosevelt advised Secretary of War Woodring that if Vermont doesn't want flod control works it doesn't have to take them.

The President also advised interested senators of this stand, the White House announced formally.

Th government is perfectly willing to step aside if Vermont desires it to do so and feels it does not want to go through with federal flood control projects, the White House announced.

No state rights are to be abridged in the federal flood control program, it was said. The entire question is up to Vermont, and may be decided by the state officials.

Youth Wounded In Police Chase

Owen Duggan, 21, of Vicksburg street, South Boston, victim of a police bullet, was held today after a wild, 70-mile-an-hour automobile chase through South Bostn.

Duggan surrendered near Columbia Circle after Patrolman Joseph McGilvary had fired several shots to halt an escape across the marshes. Police said Duggan leaped from a stolen machine after being unable to shake off police pursuit.

Police quoted Duggan as saying: "I didn't have carfare, and didn't want to walk, so I just took an automobile to get home."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis, ill for several days, was "doing very well," hospital officials said.

Governor to Pay Tribute to Foley

Governor Saltonstall headed a large number of dignitaries to pay final tribute to P. Galway Foley, former consul from Ireland to Boston, at a solemn high mass of requiem celebrated today in St. Joseph's Church, West End.

The former consul died at his home on Revere street, West End.

Japs Bomb U. S. Mission; 500 Die

LONDON, Jan. 14 (INS)—The Daily Telegraph reported from Hongkong today that an estimated 500 men, women and children were killed and about 500 wounded in a series of violent Japanese air raids over four provinces of South China.

The dispatch said the Shansi Evangelical Lutheran Mission of Missouri was struck by three bombs which completely demolished the chapel. It was not stated whether casualties were inflicted in the American mission property.

A Hongkong message to the Daily Express described the bombings as "the most devastating since last September." In one raid alone, it was added, a squadron of 36 planes killed 200 and wounded 280.

Posse Still on Hunt For Me. Fugitives

SOUTH WINDHAM, Me., Jan. 14—A posse of 20 deputy sheriffs and guards today searched the woods about Barr Mills for two remaining fugitives of the nine who escaped from the reformatory Wednesday.

The pair still at large are Martin Devine, 22, of South Boston, and Rollin Hurley, 19, of Mount Hawley, N. C.

Roosevelt Taken to Task For Rap at U. S. Press

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 14 (AP)—James Wright Brown, publisher of Editor and Publisher, newspaper trade journal, told Pennsylvania newspaper publishers today it was "a libel on the press of the country" for anyone to try to create the impression thay are edited "from the counting room."

Brown referred to President Roosevelt's recent article written for the 60th anniversary of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and said the President "had great fun" quoting from a "heart-to-heart" article written by Grover C. Hall, editor of the Montgomery Advertiser.

"The President," Brown said in a prepared address at the convention of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association, "took this little piece as his text for a sermonette—and in it in his charming manner and gracious spirit he did his very best to create the impression that our newspapers are edited from the counting room.

"That Mr. Hall's indictment of some stuffed shirts and run-of-mine editors, most of whom he says come from the counting room and some of whom are lawyers, bankers, manufacturers and former advertising men, was typical of the press of the country at large."

"You and I know that some newspapers are edited from the counting room, but by and large it is a libel on the press of the country to have anyone create or try to create the impression that American newspapers are to any large extent controlled in this way. This is not true."

Bad Man Barker Died 'Like Ma'

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14 (AP)—Like his "ma" before him, Arthur (Doc) Barker was dead from federal bullets today—the victim of a futile break from the United States penitentiary on Alcatraz Island.

The 40-year-old son of the late "Ma" Barker, who with one of "Doc's" brothers was killed in a Florida battle with government men, died in the Alcatraz prison hospital last night.

The leader of the Barker-Karpis gang, once rated as public enemy No. 1, was the most notorious of five convicts who attempted to escape the island penitentiary early yesterday.

A second was reported near death as Federal Prison Director James V. Bennett flew toward San Francisco to take over the investigation into the fourth escape attempt at Alcatraz, the third known to have taken a convict's life.

Dale Stamphill, 27, Oklahoma kidnaper, shot with Barker by guards when they resisted recapture on the island beach, was in critical condition in the prison hospital.

SECRET INVESTIGATION

Warden James A. Johnson secretly investigated the break pending Bennett's arrival. Coroner's deputies were not admitted to the island to take off Barker's body. It was delivered by prison boat to a waiting deputy at Fort Mason on the mainland. The coroner's "investigation" into the death will be entirely prison conducted—to be mailed to Coroner T. B. W. Leland by the warden today.

Prison sources indicated the manner in which the five convicts got out of their individual cells was to be investigated. They sawed through ½-inch steel bars to escape the cell block. Warden Johnston said he did not know where the saws were obtained.

Barker and Stamphill resisted when guards found them in thick fog on a beach. They were shot.

OTHERS SURRENDER

William McCain, 36, a kidnaper, and Henri Young, 28, a bank robber, surrendered. William Martin, 25, a postoffice robber, was found on shore rocks, tying bits of driftwood together to make a raft.

Two other convicts, Joe Bowers and Thomas Limerick, and a guard, R. C. Cline, previously had been killed in futile Alcatraz breaks.

The fate of the two convicts, Ralph Roe and Theodore Cole, in a third try at escape still is undetermined. They are believed to have drowned when they tried to swim from the island.

Dale Stamphill

Captured after being wounded by guards, Dale Stamphill, 27, Oklahoma kidnaper, is in critical condition. He was one of the five foiled in attempted Alcatraz break.

Arthur Barker

SHOT in attempt to escape Alcatraz, Arthur "Doc" Barker, 40, son of notorious "Ma" Barker, died in hospital few hours later.

Henry Young

Tamely, Henry Young surrendered in would-be escape at Alcatraz. He is serving 20 years for bank robbery.

William McCain

Attempt to crash out of the famed island prison failed for William McCain, 36, in for kidnaping. He surrendered.

William Martin

Serving 25 years for a P. O. robbery, William Martin, 25, tried to escape "The Rock," but was caught on shore trying to make a raft.

SNOW IN BERKSHIRES

State police at Shelburne Falls reported that nearly an inch of snow had fallen in the Berkshire region before 8 a. m. and it was "coming down hard."

During the night a heavy flurry in the vicinity of Worcester and Framingham caused hazardous conditions along the Worcester turnpike. Towns in the Blackstone valley received more snow than other Massachusetts localities.

Meanwhile the worst storm of the new year spread over the rest of the nation with snow and subfreezing temperatures general from the Atlantic to the Rockies.

The wintry onslaught followed days of springlike weathers.

Hunt Bandits After Two Truck Holdups

Police today sought two bandits who held up truck drivers in Dorchester and Milton, robbing them of $150.

The holdup men confronted John Boufford of Huntoon street, Dorchester, after he had delivered a package in Beaumont street, Dorchester. They forced him to hand over $70.

William R. Carter of Highland avenue, Somerville, laundry driver, reported he was the victim of a similar holdup, in which he lost $80, in Brook road, Milton.

Saltonstall Protests Halt of Mothers' Aid

The order to remove from the WPA by January 31 all persons eligible for mothers' aid was protested by Governor Saltonstall today in a letter to President Roosevelt because of the hardship on local government which would result.

Massachusetts with payments of $54 monthly provides the highest rate for mothers' aid in the country, the governor said, and if mothers are dropped from the WPA the state's total relief cost

Pope Gives Medal To Chamberlain

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Vatican announced today that Pope Pius gave gold medals to Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax when he received them in audience yesterday. This was interpreted as evidence that the Pontiff fully approved the peace mission of the British statesmen.

Nab Bay State Parolee, 2 Pals As Burglar Gang

RIDGEFIELD, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Burglaries in which $50,000 worth of loot was taken from several homes in Fairfield county and Westchester county, New York, were believed solved today with arrest of three men, Lieutenant Leo F. Carroll of the state police barracks here said.

The men arrested gave their names as Tony Nicholetti, 44, of Washington Park, Port Chester, N. Y.; Alfred Findlay, 35, of Cos Cob, Conn., and John Merritt, 45, no address.

Lieutenant Carroll said Findlay is on parole from the Massachusetts State prison, where he served a sentence for burglary, and that Merritt has served time in Elmira reformatory and Sing Sing prisons in New York.

Merritt's arrest followed breaking of the case Tuesday night when Harry Grady, watchman at the Candlewood Lake Club, New Milford, arrested Nicholetti near the club grounds.

Grady said he became suspicious of Nicholetti, who was sitting in a parked car. Examination of the car, the watchman said, revealed a quantity of clothing, jewels and silverware.

Findlay was the last of the trio arrested. Stolen articles, including valuable Oriental rugs, fur coats and jewelry were found in Findlay's room, police said.

Freed of Wife Who Hated U. S.

Refusal of his wife to accept life in the United States today won freedom for Raymond W. Hyde of Weymouth, granted an uncontested divorce in Norfolk Probate Court from Helen L. Hyde of London, Ont.

Hyde told Judge Joseph McCook that his Canadian wife left him in 1932 after stating she "would not continue to live in the United States under any circumstances."

He stated they were married in London, Ont., in 1932, but shortly afterward he had to move to Weymouth. He said his wife at once began complaining about the United States and soon went home.

Wait Extortion Trial in Cells

James P. Penney, 58, and Thomas P. Sweeney, 22, charged by G-men with using the mails to send extortion notes to Robert Treat Paine of Waltham, were behind bars today awaiting trial next Friday.

They were arrested after the federal men set a trap on the financier's estate. Sweeney was described as Penney's messenger, who walked into the G-men's ambush apparently without realizing the seriousness of his mission.

When $5000 bail was asked for each of the men, United States Commissioner Guterman expressed surprise at the low figure and declared the figure would be increased if at any time either man appeared able to raise bail funds.

60 Australians Die In Drought Fires

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 14 (AP)—Disastrous bush fires roared today through the heat-parched state of Victoria, leaving an estimated 60 deaths, hundreds homeless and property damage running into millions of dollars.

It Just Smells To Prexy's Wife

PUFFS and chuckles are the only answers President Karl T. Compton of M. I. T. gives to questions about his air-cooled and self-cleaning pipe. Mystery of its design still remains his secret.

It's air-cooled and self-cleaning. Scientifically designed by its owner, it's exactly the sort of stream-lined, ultra-modern pipe a Massachusetts Institute of Technology president ought to smoke.

But not at home!

"I hear more about this pipe from my wife than from anybody else," Tech Prexy Karl T. Compton told fellow engineers and educators at the Hotel Kenmore. "That's why I smoke it mostly in my office and at meetings like this."

Renewed public attention on President Compton's pipe today stimulated long-existant curiosity of Technology undergraduates.

"Prexy's forced-draft incinerator" became an M. I. T. student problem some time ago.

But the mystery of its design remained President Compton's personal secret.

He just chuckled—and puffed away contentedly!

Bribe Witness Faces Charges

NEW BEDFORD, Jan. 14—Captain Llewellyn Roberts, 42, star witness for the state in the recent bribery trial of Mayor Leo E. J. Carney which ended in mistrial when a juror was accused of contempt, was due in court today to answer charges of larceny and being present at gaming.

Police asserted the larceny, amounting to $80, occurred during a black-jack game in a downtown drinking place, at which Captain Roberts was present. Details were not revealed.

Roberts testified in the Carney trial that the mayor wanted $25,000 "on the line" for the city's refuse contract award.

Mooney Gets First Plane Trip Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14 (INS)—Tom Mooney, pardoned labor agitator, makes his first airplane trip today—in fact, two of them.

Imprisoned 22 years ago when commercial air traffic was just a dream, he plans to fly to Los Angeles, then back later to Sacramento, to address the state convention of Labor's Non-Partisan League.

Used cars as well as new ones have a definite value. When an ad offering a used car at a price far below the average for the same make and model is submitted to The Record-American it is immediately investigated, and if it is found that the automobile has been used for commercial or other purposes which would in a short time abnormally depreciate the value of the car such statements must be inserted in the ad.

Other forms of protection offered readers and advertisers alike are: No ads are accepted from dealers unless the business phone or address is given in the ad. Statements in ads submitted by dealers which would tend to lead the reader to believe that the car was offered for sale by a private party are not acceptable.

It is the sincere aim of The Record-American to maintain for the public as well as the advertisers one safe medium for the sale and exchange of used cars.

Any infraction of the above rules should be reported at once to the classified advertising manager—Liberty 4000.

Relief Families Lose Free Milk By Price Boost

A cent-a-quart boost in the price of milk today was accompanied by a 45,000-quart curtailment in the free milk distributed to welfare families throughout this area.

The one-cent increase goes into effect throughout Greater Boston tomorrow, while the reduction in free milk, from 126,000 quarts to 81,000 quarts, starts Monday.

Price of milk delivered to homes jumps from 13 to 14 cents in accordance with orders signed by Administrator Joseph C. Cort and Chairman James O'Brien of the Massachusetts Milk Control Board. On May 1 a lower price automatically becomes effective under the new milk code of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The 45,000 quarts will be withdrawn chiefly from WPA families and border-line welfare families in the low-salary brackets. Families on welfare which have been limited to one or two quarts daily will be least affected by the order.

In announcing the price change, Administrator Cort stated:

"After a series of public hearings, the Massachusetts milk control board has approved an increase of a cent a quart . . . the price of milk, effective Sunday morning, January 15. This increase is accompanied by a federal milk marketing order, which resulted from recent hearings in Vermont, Maine and Massachusetts, at which evidence was introduced which justified an increase to the farmers."

Burns Witness Against Benny

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (INS)—George Burns of the famous radio team of Burns and Allen, will be forced to testify against his best pal, Jack Benny, "No. 1 funny man of the air," in the smuggling case in which the two are linked with convicted Albert N. Chaperau, government prosecutors all but admitted today.

It was learned that in view of the confession Burns made recently before pleading guilty to four counts of cooperation with Chaperau he cannot escape appearing as a witness against his friend.

Benny pleaded not guilty to the indictments found against him by the federal grand jury and so must stand trial.

Indication of the embarrassing position in which the friends will be placed was given when, without explanation, the sentencing of Burns was postponed.

Bibles for Schools New Gideon Project

A program for placing Bibles in every public school room in America was discussed today by the Gideons, holding their eastern states convention at Hotel Statler.

William H. Hardin of Atlanta, Ga., president of the society's international cabinet, stated that since the organization's founding 30 years ago 1,500,000 Bibles have been given away.

EMBEZZLEMENT of $30,000 by Harry C. Thon was blamed on his infatuation for Princess Nadja, night club dancing girl upon whom he lavished expensive gifts.

Soviet Speeds War Program

PARIS, Jan. 14 (INS)—French dispatches from Moscow today said 15,000 members of the Russian Young Communist League are undergoing "severe examination" to choose entrants to military schools for the training of officers.

Thirty-two new schools for officers will be created and military training of Soviet youth will be intensified, one requisite being the acquisition of knowledge of one or two foreign languages.

Soviet political circles hinted that Chancellor Hitler has told the Soviet ambassador he desires to continue "normal relations" with Moscow, and that no disagreement of an urgent nature now exists between the Reich and Russia.

Nevertheless, dispatches indicate the Soviet Union is accelerating its war program. The Russian government is reported negotiating in the United States for large quantities of a certain kind of steel which cannot be manufactured in Soviet plants.

Harvard Alumni Hail Frankfurter

Praise of Professor Felix Frankfurter, Supreme Court appointee, for his 35 years' service to Harvard and regret over losing him were expressed by alumni of the university today by an editorial in the weekly Harvard Alumni Bulletin.

The article hit at critics of the famed professor as having criticized "everything except his fitness for the office to which he has been appointed." He was hailed for his sense of social conscienceness and his personal charm.

Clue to Plane Crash Sought; 4 Bodies Found

MILES SITY, Mont., Jan. 14 (AP)—The flaming crash of a Northwest Airlines plane, carrying four persons to their death two miles west of Miles City, left investigators with a tragic puzzle to decipher today.

All of the plane's occupants died instantly in the crash. Their bodies were found.

SEEK CLUE TO CRASH

The only solution tothe crash lay in the wreckage of the plane, scattered in a coulee a mile west of the Municipal airport from which the plane just had made a "normal takeoff."

While airlines and civil aeronautic authorities investigators sped here from Minneapolis, the air safety board announced in Washinton it had assigned three men to make the official inquiry.

The board dispatched Tom Hardie, board member, and Frank Caldwell, chief investigator, from Washington by plane and said Phil Salzman of the board's Los Angeles office, would come here from the coast.

THOSE ON PLANE

Pilot C. B. (Cash) Chamberlain of Minneapolis, a pioneering pilot trained by the late Frank Hawks. He had flown the first ship for Universal Air Lines between Chicago and Cleveland in 1928, and two years later opened the Dallas-Los Angeles run for American Airways.

Co-Pilot Raymond B. Norby of Minneapolis, who had flown for Northwest since 1936.

Richard S. Zahniser, about 52, connected with the Consolidated Motor Freight Service of Billings, Mont. He had been a Montana highway commission engineer for several years, and an engineer for the Montana railroad and public service commission.

Norway Annexes Antarctic Land

OSLO, Jan. 14 (INS)—By royal proclamation Norway today annexed an Antarctic territory stretching from the border of the Falkland Islands dependencies west to the border of the Australian Antarctic dependency.

NEW YORK CITY HARD HIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—A shovel-and-sweep army of 32,000 workers toiled to keep Metropolitan New York traffic moving today in the midst of the winter's heaviest snowfall—nine inches since 2 p. m. yesterday—with wind-swept flakes still falling amid slowly rising temperatures.

'Pure Race' Theory Blows Up!

Pre-Historic Skulls Tell Story

LONDON, Jan. 14 (INS)—Professor Franz Weidenreich, noted German anthropologist and director of the Rockefeller Cenozoic Laboratory at Peiping, dealt a severe blow to modern theories of racial purity when he revealed new facts concerning the pre-historic "Peking Man," the Daily Telegraph reported today.

A Peiping dispatch to the newspaper said Dr. Weidenreich announced that seven skulls discovered in the famous Choukoutien Cave were found to adhere to three distinct racial types, the Melanesian, the Eskimo and the Neanderthal. The skulls belonged to a family which is estimated to have lived in the cave 100,000 years ago.

At a lecture in the Rockefeller Hospital at Peiping, Dr. Weidenreich, who differs with the racial theories expounded by the totalitarian regimes of Germany and Italy, contended that his researchers completely disproved the thesis of continuous racial purity.

The anthropologist claimed, the dispatch said, that the mixing of races has been going on since the dawn of mankind. He produced the seven skulls found in the Choukoutien Cave, pointing out the characteristics of the Melanesian, Eskimo and Neanderthal strains.

Successively a member of the faculties of Heidelberg, Frankfurt and Chicago universities before he took charge of the Rockefeller Cenozoic Laboratory, Dr. Weidenreich was quoted as having said that all research activities thus far conducted had failed to prove that there was such a thing as a distinct Chinese race.

Solons' Cab Passes Defended by Donor

Frank Sawyer, president of Checker Cab, today defended free taxi rides for certain legislators as Representative John B. Wenzler, of South Boston, sought their identities in a legislative probe.

"What difference does it all make anyway?" Sawyer told reporters who sought the names.

"It's true we have given out about 50 books of courtesy coupons to members of the legislature. I don't recall their names right now and I don't see that it is anybody's business. The free idea was my own and it isn't any different than the ball parks giving season passes to the same members."

Demand for the names of the legislators who were thus favored was made in an order filed by Representative Wenzler, on the basis of admissions made by Sawyer at a hearing before the Boston City Council committee on public safety.

In filing his order, Wenzler said:

"This black mark against the Legislature must be confirmed or proved untrue. Personally I don't think any member of the Legislature should accept free rides from the company, regardless of how well-meant it all might be."

At the same time, the Boston Finance Commission announced it would continue hearings into the Boston taxi situation Tuesday and has invited Sawyer and Alwin E. Hodson of the Town Taxi Company to appear.

Hunt Taxi Driver In Kidnap Death

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (INS)—Clifford M. Weatherwax, 60-year-old California oil millionaire, is dead at Mt. Sinai Hospital from injuries received Jan. 3, when kidnap outside the fashionable Ritz-Carlton Hotel, slugged, robbed of $1000 and hurled from a speeding auto.

Identity of the taxi driver who drove Weatherwax from the Ritz-Carlton to the downtown spot where he was fatally beaten, was known today, and his apprehension was expected momentarily.

Detective Forti, working on the case unceasingly, said the taxi driver would be able to account, in any event, for Weatherwax's movements when he left the hotel, telling his wife he was going for a walk, to the time, several hours later, when he was found.

2 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

DEFINAICE, O., Jan. 14 (AP)—Two trainmen were injured and a score of passengers escaped injury today when a Wabash passenger train bound for Toledo was wrecked.

BLESSING of parents have been given Janet Gula, New Bedford "jitterbug champion," and her dancing partner, Antone Remiro, with whom she eloped to Elkton, Md.

PHYLLIS BROOKS

It's Her Biggest Thrill!

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14 — Just talking to "real government officials" gave Phyllis Brooks of the screen one of her biggest thrills, she revealed today. She was questioned about activities of William P. Buckner in stock and bond sales. "This is really thrilling," she cried. "But I never invested a penny in Mr. Buckner's enterprises—in fact, I never even heard of him."

Star Is Quizzed On Bonds

Divorcee Happy Despite 'Shiner'

Mrs. Hazel A. Landry, 29, of Pepperell, still had a black eye today, but the discoloration could be borne with comparative happiness, for it won her a divorce.

At first hiding her injured optic behind a turned down hat, Mrs. Landry later exposed it to the full view of Middlesex probate court upon request of her counsel.

VARIED TREATMENT

The black eye, she informed the court, was presented her by her wrestler husband, Theodore P. Landry, who, she also testified, indulged in other cruelties such as throwing an axe at her, spilling hot coffee on her and using her as a punching bag.

The impaired orb, not completely blackened but still in the "shiner" class, came about during her visit to Pepperell Tuesday to bring her boys some clothes, the wife declared.

She denied she had taken $25 from her husband's trousers before the punch was administered.

EXPOSES INJURY

During the rest of her testimony Mrs. Landry allowed her hat to rest on the stand and her bad eye, with which she squinted at attorneys, to remain in view.

Under cross-examination Mrs. Landry denied she had received a letter from a man named "Billie," but when a letter was produced she admitted a "rough recollection" of it.

The letter spoke of Mr. Landry as "Satan" and observed that Mrs. Landry's face "looked lovely in the moonlight and if I had been a great artist I could have created a masterpiece then."

"BILLIE" UNIDENTIFIED

"What is Billie's full name?" asked the opposing counsel.

"That's for you to find out, isn't it?" countered the wife. "I don't want to encounter other people in this."

Judge John C. Leggatt awarded Mrs. Landry a divorce and $15 a week alimony. She was also given custody of her two boys, 10 and 11 years old.

Widen Search For N. H. Man

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., Jan. 14—With daylight today, 200 American Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, police and firemen were reinforced with new details of men in their search for William Boyer, 40, feared lost in the woods south of the city.

Apprehensive for the man's safety because of his frail health, searchers worked unceasingly throughout the night but could find no trace of him. He disappeared at 7 p. m. Thursday.

Police of Salmon Falls, Dover, Rochester and South Berwick, Me., joined the search when a child reported having seen Royer leaning against a pole on the highway to Dover, as though a victim of sudden illness.

Capone May Face New U. S. Tax Trial

CHICAGO, Jan. 14 (INS)—It looked today like Al Capone was headed for another court round with the Federal government after he gets out of jail. His name appeared on the calendar of Federal Judge John P. Barnes court in an income tax deficiency case in which it was alleged he owed the government $269,000 tax for the years from 1924 to 1928.

The suit was placed on a special list so that hearings may be held on five day notice.

10 Seek Dowd's Seat in Council

Ten candidates today filed nomination papers for the seat in the Boston city council, held by Sheriff John F. Dowd of Roxbury. A special election will be held February 14.

Candidates who filed signatures of 300 or more registered voters are William F. Hurley of Magazine street, Garrett J. Manning of Dudley street, Thomas W. Howie of Blue Hill avenue, John F. Donahue of Zeigler street, Representative George F. McMahon of Clifton street, Edward Maloof of East Brookline street, Paul J. Lawrence of Eustis street, John J. O'Brien of Sharon street, Michael Joseph Manning of Batchelder street and Albert Gardner of Eustis street.

Brunettes Win In B. C. Poll

Brunettes, Ambassador Kennedy, Helen Hayes and Fred Allen were leaders in the conglomeration of "most popular" favorites of Boston College's senior class today.

In the annual poll taken by Sub Turri, year book of the graduating class, brunettes were voted as much to be preferred to blondes. Ambassador Kennedy gained twice the votes of President Roosevelt, second choice, as America's greatest living statesman.

Other awards of superlatives went to Spencer Tracy as favorite actor, Helen Hayes as best actress, Fred Allen as most popular humorist, "The Citadel," by A. J. Cronin, as best novel, and Sammy Kaye as band the leader among dance orchestras.

Enesco Scores In Dual Role

By RUTH MARSTERS
Music Editor

Contributing brilliantly to a Boston Symphony program for the second time within a year in the two-fold capacity of guest-conductor and composer, George Enesco was vigorously applauded by yesterday afternoon's audience in Symphony Hall.

That the orchestra was in top form was evident from the beginning of the Mozart "Haffner" Symphony in D major which opened the program and the distinguished Roumanian guest used the full resources of the instrument with the greatest effectiveness throughout.

George Enesco

Enesco's conductatorial technique is as free from furbelow as his interpretations are free from frolic—the one explicit in regard to nuance, precise as to rhythmic best, the other marked with utmost sensitiveness to line and color.

Though, unlike many composer-conductors, Enesco is most happy in the performance of his own works, the Allegro con spirito of the "Haffner" Symphony was as "fiery" as Mozart himself could have wished, the Finale as fleet.

Enesco's Roumanian Rhapsody No. 2 which followed in its first hearing at these concerts proved rich in songfulness, a strong folk flavor. It was well received as was "Chef cu lautari" (Merry-making with fiddlers) presented for the first time in the United States.

CARRIES HUMOR

The latter, the finale of a suite by the young Roumanian composer, Dinu Lipatti, is a rythmically effervescent bit embellished with a native and piquant humor.

The climax of the afternoon came with the performance of Enesco's First Symphony.

A romantic and youthful work, the vigorous rythms and soaring climaxes of the first and last movements find an interlude in the angelic tenderness of the second.

Enesco here is as lavish with melody as he is with orchestral color—his harmonic scheme as elastic as his emotional compass is broad.

The orchestra was magnificent—the audience delighted.

The same program will be repeated in this evening's concert in Symphony Hall.

Stanwyck-Fonda Hit for Boston

Starting Monday, and continuing through Thursday, the RKO Boston theater will present Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda in the comedy-mystery romance, "The Mad Miss Manton," and "Road Demon," second in the exciting Sports Adventure series, with Henry Armetta, Henry Arthur, Jean Valerie and Bill Robinson featured.

Efforts of a wealthy society girl to spite the police and a newspaper reporter by solving a baffling murder mystery is the basis of "The Mad Miss Manton." The cast includes Sam Levene, Francis Mercer, Whitney Bourne, Vicki Lester, Linda Terry and others.

In "Road Demon," Henry Armetta again is seen in the hilarious role of Papa Gambini, and the whole family returns with him.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14—Walter Pidgeon, who caused femme hearts to flutter last year, and who received as much crush "fan" mail as any top star on the M-G-M lot finally gets a break. In the past he's been playing second fiddle to Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy, but when "Good Enemies" goes under the wire, Walter steps into the starring spot.

The hero is a district attorney, who sends thousands of men to prison only to run afoul of the law himself. Sounds familiar to me. Maybe it's the story of Los Angeles' former district attorney, Asa Keyes, who was convicted and sent to San Quentin, where he had previously sent thousands of criminals he had prosecuted.

Wonder if you've read Lloyd Douglas' "Disputed Passage" in Cosmopolitan? If you haven't you've missed a really great story, for it is a sort of American "Citadel" and revolves around the conflicts between old and new ideals in medicine.

Paramount bought it some time ago and have now decided to put Dorothy Lamour, Robert Preston and Akim Tamiroff in the leads. You're going to hear a lot about this young Preston, who also gets a part in "Beau Geste." Over on the Paramount lot they have great hopes for him.

* * *

Pardon me a moment while I brag. Did I say that Vivien Leigh would be signed for Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind," that Leslie Howard had been signed for Ashley and Olivia De Havilland for Melanie? Now David Selznick is announcing all of them, which makes us 100 per cent right. Mattie McDaniels has been signed for Mammy, and it is the boast of the Selznick company that this cast, including Clark Gable, is really the people's choice.

Maureen O'Sullivan received an advance course in how to take care of a baby when she reported at M-G-M for the first day's work on "Tarzan in Exile." In the very first scene Maureen has to take care of a six-months-old baby (Tarzan, Jr.) and there was a registered nurse on the set to show her how to bathe the infant, keep its back straight, feed it from a bottle and what to do for colic pains! All this advance training will come in mighty handy when the stork drops his bundle at the John Farrows in May.

Chatter in Hollywood: Hard to believe that two swell gals with a sense of humor like Claudette Colbert and Barbara Stanwyck are feuding about a "hair do." But their friends are certainly trying to stir up something. Seems that Antoine created a very tricky coiffure for Colbert to wear in "Midnight" with little velvet bows on the nape of the neck.

Then Barbara moved over for "Union Pacific" and the 1860 hair mode she wears is practically the same thing. Anyway, both stars are appearing on the set with almost identical hairdresses. And if the girls don't care themselves—their pals think one or the other should give in and make a change of coiffure.

A Line or Two: Friday, the 13th, hit the Columbia lot with more bad luck than any other studio. That plane Paul Mantz "cracked up" in while he was stunting for "Plane No. 4" was a sister ship to the one Amelia Earhart disappeared in. Another accident at the same studio occurred when Penny Singleton slipped and injured her leg so badly she won't be able to report on the "Blondie" set for days.

Jack Conway is sick and unable to continue "The Wizard of Oz," so Woody Van Dyke has taken up the megaphone and will finish the job for Mervyn Leroy . . . Republic thinks "Wagons Westward" is too tame a title for the exploits of Sam Houston so they're retitling it "Man of Conquest" . . . After all the hullabaloo of testing 100 chorus girls, Virginia Grey gets the role of the streamlined vamp who turns her glamour on Mickey Rooney in "The Hardys Ride High."

Clarence Muse, Negro actor and singer, who rose to fame producing "Run Little Chillun," has been signed by Sol Lesser to work on the script of "Song of Tomorrow," a yarn of the South . . . The "extras" had their best break in a long time when Universal hired 500 yesterday for almost a week's work. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

New Holmes Series Opens

Burton Holmes, popular travel lecturer, opens his 1939 series this afternoon, at 2:30 p. m., in Symphony Hall, with a talk on the West Indies.

The remainder of this season's travel journeys by Mr. Holmes will be given on successive Saturday afternoons, with next Saturday's continuing the West Indies theme, "Along the Spanish Main."

On January 28, he begins a motor tour, "In Glorious Norway," progressing to "Beautiful Sweden" for the February 4 talk, and on to "The New Iceland," subject of the February 11 talk.

The five travelogues, in color and motion pictures, were made during the past summer by Burton Holmes, Margaret Olivey Holmes and Cameraman Ned Ewer.

'Devil's Island' Film Premiere Next Thursday

"Devil's Island," heralded as the most daring and sensational drama ever produced by a major screen company, will have its premiere showing at the Paramount and Fenway theaters next Thursday.

Timely and powerful, the Warner Brothers picture depicts with stark realism the cruel and ruthless brutality that made "Devil's Island" seem an anachronism in the twentieth century and led finally to its being temporarily abolished less than a year ago.

Based on an original story by Anthony Coldewey and Raymond Schrock, the sensational film stars Boris Karloff with Nedda Harrigan, James Stephenson and Robert Warwick.

Ex-Bradford Student Author

Esther Forbes, co-author with Saxon Kling of "What Every Woman Wants," a new comedy, starring Francine Larrimore, which Lee and J. J. Shubert will present at the Wilbur Theater, January 30, made her first and practically last stage appearance while she attended Bradford Junior College. A large girl, with plenty of lung power, Miss Forbes played Sir Toby Belch in "Twelfth Night."

She bellowed and swaggered during rehearsals, enjoying herself no end and shaking the building, not exempting the principal's office, with her Falstaffian laughter.

The afternoon before the performance, she was sent for by the principal, who suggested:

"Esther, I do want you to remember that even though you are playing the part of Sir Toby Belch, you are still a Bradford girl."

Special 'Macbeth' Rates For Students

The fact that the Federal Theater's "Macbeth," scheduled for the Copley beginning January 31, will follow closely the Shakespearean classic text is causing a run on reservations from college and high school student groups.

Eugene C. Keenan, supervisor of promotion for the Federal Theater with offices at 67 Quincy street, Roxbury, announces reduced school rates for students throughout the "Macbeth" engagement.

New Starring Trio at Uptown

Janet Gaynor, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Paulette Goddard make their debut as an exciting new screen trio in the comedy romance, "The Young In Heart," the week's new attraction at the Uptown Theater. Roland "Topper" Young, Billie Burke, Henry Stephenson, Richard Carlson and Minnie Dupree head the supporting cast.

On the same program is "Submarine Patrol," based on the heroic exploits of America's wartime "Splinter Fleet."

'Of Mice and Men' Will Open Jan. 23

"Of Mice and Men," John Steinbeck's thrilling drama of the bindle stiffs of the West, comes to the Plymouth Theater for two weeks beginning Monday, January 23. After winning the New York Drama Critics Circle award for being the best play produced in New York in 1938, the Steinbeck play duplicated that unanimous verdict with the Chicago drama critics who united in calling it a "masterpiece."

EVERY MUSICAL SHOW on Broadway played Boston before New York . . . The situation rates some attention because, as far as this column can check, it has never existed before . . . The new "Big Three" among the musicals are "Leave It To Me," "Hellzapoppin'," and "The Boys From Syracuse" . . . They all made their prior-to-Broadway bows here . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

"Knickerbocker Holiday," although not a musical comedy of the conventional type, was an early season attraction in Boston, and the successful "I Married An Angel" opened the season . . . What will make the record increasingly unique is that next week will see "Set to Music," the Noel Coward-Bee Lillie triumph, installed at the Music Box, just west of Broadway . . . "Set to Music" recently departed after a Christmas night premiere in Boston, which keeps the Boston-to-Broadway record unanimous among the musicals.

Former Governor Hurley will return to Boston from Bermuda February 5. His trip to Europe will not follow immediately . . . Mayor Tobin is improving, but the medicos are trying to keep him at home . . . He will attend the dinner Tuesday night at the Copley to honor the memory of John A. Malloy, former editorial boss of the Hearst papers and now assigned in New York . . . Joseph H. Brennan, executive secretary of the Allied theaters, will be the speaker representing the Boston theatrical interests at the Malloy dinner . . .

Mrs. H. T. Hall, the Belmont sportswoman, has sailed south again in the hope of beating her own record . . . She made the 1938 record catch of sailfish. Her prize was landed off the Florida coast. It measured 7 feet 5 inches, and weighed 56½ pounds.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is scheduled to make six all-technicolor productions this season. The first, "Sweethearts," starring Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald will open at the State and Orpheum January 26 . . . Dawn Patrol is selling out the Metropolitan, and vaudeville is here to stay did someone say again?—if the business at the Boston is an indication of sustained strength . . .

The Boston Advertising Club will designate Tuesday, February 21, as "Motion Picture Day" on its private calendar. Leon Bamberger, the New York theatrical man, will speak at the club's weekly luncheon.

It Can Happen Here:

Nine years ago this month, the oversigned was one of a forlorn trio which viewed the post-crash world through smoke-colored glasses . . . One of the others was a songwriter who had written one hit ("Little By Little"), and was now out of work . . .

The other was a lad who sang songs with a band, but because of an altercation with a cop and a decision to quit Paul Whiteman and go it on his own, was also out of work . . .

Yours truly was not out of work. He was busy superintending the flight of a fortune because people were not turning out in sufficient numbers to support an expensive musical show . . . Things were tough . . .

It's an advertisement in this week's Variety which brought about this bit of reminiscence . . . A full-page ad, it breathed a lament because the signer would not be able to listen-in to Bing Crosby's radio program Thursday night, because the author of the ad was going to be busy on the other countrywide network—acting in a program of his own . . .

Walter O'Keefe was the signer of the advertisement . . . He was the out-of-work songwriter of January 1930, and you can guess who the out-of-work singer was . . . Right . . . They called him "Bing" then too

Once Over Lightly:

Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra will play an engagement shortly at Symphony Hall . . . Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians will play at the Boston Garden Wednesday, January 25, when the Sons of Italy celebrate the silver jubilee of the organization . . .

Mary Eunde, the so-styled "blonde breeze of the West," and rated with Ann Corio as one of the highly-paid girls of burlesque, will be back in March at the Old Howard. Meantime, the alluring Mary Joyce, and Sonya "Kinsky" Blane are co-featuring in one of the most successful weeks of the year at the famous old West End theater . . .

Long-range aiming, in the campaign to "build the Port of Boston" is being practiced. City Greeter Lou Brems and Richard Parkhurst, a director of the port, have induced conventioneers of the Associated Farm Women of America (300 of 'em), to sail for Europe from Boston instead of New York. They arrive and—leave in May.

How to Get Along in the World

Consumer King In Business

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Economic Commentator for International News Service and Author of "The Diary of a Prudent Investor" and Other Books of Finance

It is high time that we consumers escaped from our misconceptions and fears, and recognized that we who are employed are the masters—and not the slaves—of the business world.

You and I, the consumers of shops and stores and factory wares are the real bosses with vastly more potential power than politicos, chieftains and big interests.

We consumers are the final arbiters of success or failure in business. Yet we move quietly behind the scenes. An inherent modesty keeps us out of the limelight. But in spite of the obscurity of buyers not unlike you and me they rule as monarchs over the great empire of business and finance.

Our predecessors of earlier times were the Roman Emperors: their power was seized by feudal lords; later by robber barons; next came the czars of finance and now we find in a high-ness the ultimate consumer who is the symbolic incarnation of all of us as the real rulers of the mighty

THE UNKNOWN

He, whether consumer is you and I or just plain Mr. Postman porter plumber bus driver or writer. He is unknown because he is so close to us. He is a symbol of the great unclassified aggregation of ordinary folk.

He is one of us instead of one of them.

Mere shifts in the attitude and mood of the unknown consumer have resulted in a collapse in business volume. Accordingly all industry has been put out of kilter and the result has been world wide seeming overproduction and widespread unemployment.

After the unknown consumer turns many prominent family heads who have never met him and who probably never will find little home slips in their pay envelopes indicating that their services are no longer required.

The new God of industry and commerce, by changes in buying habits caused great corporations which long flourished to fear seizure by the sheriff. By pulling in his horns momentarily the unknown consumer destroys the earning power of vast railroad net works, and in time causes great cities states and even the federal government to worry how to make both ends meet.

CASTS BALLOTS DAILY

Even in times of prosperity when the unknown consumer is bestowing his power beneficiently, his arbitrary tastes decree rich and bounteous success for his court favorites and cruel failure for those who fail to please him. Instead of voting only once a year at the political election the unknown consumer in effect goes to the ballot box each day, and casts votes in favor of those products which he buys and against those which he ignores.

College presidents, erudite senators, learned newspaper editors and multimillionaires may organize a conspiracy to favor new fads and new viewpoints, but, unless they can convince the unknown consumer, the campaign proves a flop.

The President of the United States, the governors of the Federal Reserve Board, the Speaker of the House, J. Pierpont Morgan, and even the Pope can get together and exhort the unknown customer to "buy now," but, if he deems it advisable to retrench, all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot drag orders from his reluctant clutches.

And the consequences or underbuying are closed factories, shut down mines and quarries, half-filled freight cars, poorly patronized shops—and lines of unemployed men and women numbering millions, as well as partially unemployed men and women of perhaps half as many millions more.

BASIS FOR PROSPERITY

Accordingly, the beginning and end of wisdom in business management is to understand the objective of all trade activities, the unknown consumer.

Former President Wilson visualized the true basis for prosperity when he observed:

"We must realize that business exists for society and not society for business."

The same thought was expressed in more commercial terms by Kenneth M. Goode, the ad man, who remarked:

"The customer is king."

And the sage of Dearborn, Henry Ford, in sensing the same fundamental, once remarked:

"In the natural order of things sales ought not to be hard to make. If selling does become difficult, it is usually wiser to compare your article with the needs of the public than to put on more sales power."

BRADSHAW Rail Bill Good Sign

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Introduction of the omnibus rail bill in the House of Representatives means the industry has sound cause to believe hopes of remedial, and constructive, legislation in this session of Congress will be fulfilled.

Mere drafting of a bill to bring about needed changes in handling railroad affairs is far from enactment. But it does indicate an appreciation of current problems. It also represents a reversal of the old attitude that all the industry required is reform from within.

Another important phase is the supervision of all forms of transportation by one agency. Rails are no longer to be treated as a class apart.

Finally, enactment of the bill embraces a definite plan for segregating supervision of various transportation matters. This should make for more rapid handling of controversies, and provide highly regarded specialists for the varied problems connected with transportation controversies.

Although the market extended its reaction in the past week it seems to us the important development was the uncovering of reasons behind the weakness . . . Most observers were at a loss to understand selling persistence . . . In a row it can be told" vein, the financial fraternity has been informed of failure of Anglo-Italian conversations . . . of conservative checks on spenders . . . of smaller-than-expected armament expenditures . . . But the slide came before the news . . . and bearishness because of it seems a trifle belated.

The news indicates, at worst, a slowing of recovery trends . . . Certainly they are not in the way to hastening . . . There is going to be plenty of activity in business . . . Aircraft manufacturers should be more than encouraged with a promise of 18 months' business . . . Relief has not been cut appropriations . . . Stiffening of the European lines includes defense industries war is out . . .

Notes From the Charts . . . Rails have not broken downside resistance as yet . . . volume on dips near the end of the week was more bullish than bearish . . . a quick rally would be used to sell . . . while a rounding out of a firm base around lows of the week will encourage buying . . . in the belief the spring upturn is in the making and it will be the last chance to get aboard . . .

Boardroom Briefs . . . Schenley is expected to show between $2 and $2.50 a share for last year . . . Allied Stores, Gimble and Interstate are favored merchandisers . . . Because they are said to have materially reduced operating expenses . . . The trade as a whole considers its profit to look the best in years.

If oil and water won't mix, oil and sugar will . . . from a business standpoint . . . That is why those with Cuban American Sugar in their accounts are watching drilling operations in the Santa Clara province, Cuba . . . Company has a large estate there . . . and some exploration work may be done if neighboring ventures work out.

RUKEYSER Realists Ignore 1939 Ballyhoo

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 Realists, who express their opinions by purchases and sales at the stock exchange, have not been guided by the first of the year ballyhoo.

They discount the bombast of the first of the year cheer leaders, and seek with their own judgments and precepts to estimate the earnings and prospects of corporations.

Yet in spite of short-term recovery fluctuations, business is likely to proceed within a narrow range of the level of the last quarter.

A decisive upward expansion of investment is restrained by the continuing maladjustments. Profits remain entirely half of what would be needed to produce a boom and maintain a high prosperity level.

Lack of genuine world peace is, of course a deterrent to long-term business investment and [illegible] the best approach for domestic prosperity is to protect American labor and industry.

Walter S. McLucas, chairman of the National Bank of Detroit, directs attention to the need for policies to encourage private industry to join with the Federal government in priming the pump.

"If conservative ratios of debt to equity capital are to be preserved it is necessary that a larger part of new capital requirements be obtained through the sale of such equity securities," Mr. McLucas says.

"A satisfactory determination of our national power policy is a prerequisite to any substantial flow of the equity capital needed in this industry. The expenditure of the funds so obtained would be a major contributing factor in the revival of the heavy industries, and, consequently, in the restoration of a higher level of private employment.

"Since most government expenditures must ultimately be met from the proceeds of taxation it is apparent that every effort should be made to foster industrial development to the end that as large a share as possible of the employable population may be engaged in productive private enterprise."

There is a growing tendency to ignore the importance of day to day market fluctuations in security prices. Federal banking authorities, on the date of examination, [illegible] the current day's prices of securities held in bank portfolios.

The new formula is to evaluate high grade bonds at cost, less amortization of premiums. Other bonds on which interest is being met, are carried at average [illegible]

Stocks Turn In Slow Trading

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP) — The stock market swung in all directions in the quiet today with leading issues recording fractions to around 2 points at most.

Steels, motors, utilities and rails were on the win of the forward side. While dealings were about as slow as in the preceding session advances were well maintained in the final hour.

Brokers referred to the improved price trend as partly technical, resulting from the almost uninterrupted decline which got under way at the close of the year. Tension over foreign affairs also lessened as a market factor following the Anglo-Italian conference which, while bringing no specific agreement apparently, marked toward peace.

Conspicuous on the upward move were shares of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, United Aircraft, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, Sears, Simmons, [illegible] and North American.

Bonds were generally better and commodities closed higher.

Savings Bank Deposits Gain

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (INS)—Deposits rose $115,447,706 in 1938 in the 134 mutual savings banks of New York State, exceeding for the first time since 1931 the dividends credited to depositors, the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York reported today.

Total deposits at the close of the year were $5,415,577,429. The number of accounts was 5,942,478, a decrease of 19,444 from the end of 1937. The banks paid out $111,000,000 in dividends, in addition to which $22,000,000 was distributed to Christmas Club depositors in the final two months of the year.

Wools Active In Boston Mart

Domestic wools were fairly active in the Boston market during the past week. The volume was not quite up to that of the previous week but it was large enough to mantain a very firm tone in the market. Prices made slight advances on a few kinds of wool.

Quotations were firm on graded greasy combing bright fleece wools at 29 to 31 cents in the grease for fine territory at 29 to 31 cents for half blood, at 31 to 33 cents for three-eighths blood and at 30 to 32 cents for quarter blood.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (INS) — Army quarters today predicted Congress will revise the army procurement act to preclude excessive profits to aircraft manufacturers in the administration's aerial armament program.

Well-informed sources said the elimination as regards a tightening of the army system of bidding as necessary with regard to "change of design" orders issued by the Air Corps.

Retail Store Sales

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (INS) — Department store sales for the week ended Jan. 7 were 15 per cent lower than a year ago and for four weeks 3 per cent higher than a year ago, the Federal Reserve Board reported today. Sales of New York and Brooklyn department stores for the week were 22.3 per cent under 1 year ago.

American Telephone Reports Earnings

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co., for the three months ended December 31 last, today reported net income of $40,487,000 after charges equal to $2.17 a common share, against $47,772,406 or $2.56 a common share in the like 1937 quarter.

The company said earnings for the month of December 1938 were "partly estimated."

For the 12 months ended December 31 last net income was $132,937,499 after charges equal to $8.14 a common share, against $174,834,815 or $9.92 a share in the preceding year.

The income account is figured on a "parent company" basis with dividends from subsidiaries forming the principal item, totaling $38,833,000 for the quarter and $147,875,000 for the year.

The company voted $2 per share dividend on the common stock during 1938. In the final quarter it failed to earn the $2 paid by $1.56.85 and for the full year earned $15,144.00 less than the amount disbursed in dividend payments, the statement said.

The report said that "since the 1935 merger the Bell System, which includes most of the principal telephone operating companies, showed a net gain of about [illegible] phones coupled with an increase of 17.4% in the year 1937 gained."

For the year 1938 the system reported a net gain of approximately [illegible] phones against 3,575,000 [illegible] 1937. There were approximately [illegible] Bell System telephones in service December 31 last.

Textile Stocks Pile Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP) — Mill stocks of textiles continued to pile up last week as reports from Worth street trading centers indicated slow turnover. Mill and trade houses showed considerable disappointment over further price reactions. Further price decreases are looked for until buyers clean up current surpluses.

The one bright note was in combed lawns, with price bonuses ranging up to ¼-cent a yard. With sight stocks on hand it was reported any pick-up in demand would rapidly exhaust supplies.

Print cloths moved in moderate volume when buyers were able to obtain price concessions, but when these sources dried up business ceased. Sheetings and broad cloths were quiet.

Silk and rayon fabrics registered definite improvement and prices hardened. Latest buying appeared to be preliminary to Easter and spring promotions. Fall fashioned hosiery shared in the increased activity.

Print cloths of the 38½ inch 64x60 5.35 variety sold at 4½ cents during the week, but at the close were quoted a nominal 4¾ cents. The 37-inch, 48x44 4.00 sheetings sold at concessions of ¼ cent a yard.

Upturn Seen In N. E. Trade

BOSTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—Business activity in New England sagged during the week but observers saw encouraging factors.

New business in the woolen goods industry was seasonably slow, but mills continued to operate very actively on [illegible] rics. Interest was shown in heavyweight goods for fall. Raw wool prices strengthened and sentiment improved.

Brokers reported slower business in the cotton market. Uncertainty concerning the government's disposal of surplus cotton appeared to reduce trading in the finished goods lines. Moderate sales characterized sales of gray goods.

Machine Tool Index Climbs

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (INS)—Index of new machine tool orders advanced 34.3 points to 146.5 in December, according to the National Machine Tool Builders Association. This brought the index 3.8 points above the December, 1937 index of 142.7.

The month to month gain was the largest since April 1937 and marks the first time the 1938 index topped the corresponding 1937 month.

Wheat Crop Cut Uncertain

CHICAGO, Jan. 14 (AP) — The prospective wheat crop conference to attack the problem of surplus stocks and low prices assembled yesterday with most of the grain trade under a cloud of steps already taken by the country to reduce production.

Traders said that if the acreage cut made by domestic farmers is matched in proportion by producers in other exporting countries the result would be world [illegible] material, [illegible] and [illegible] prices. However, few believe that such steps are likely to be taken.

Thus the plan to hold a conference was expected to have a [illegible] effect on market operations. Some observers predicted it might be some time before the parley convenes because of [illegible] differences among the nations involved.

ASSOCIATED GAS HEARING SET

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP) — Representatives of the Associated Gas and Electric Company today were confident they would be able to answer satisfactorily charges made against the company by the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington.

The SEC order set a hearing for February 14 on alleged non-compliance of certain provisions of the Securities and Exchange Act.

STOP THIS, CONGRESS!

The Editor Says:

New England's view is accurately given to Congress by Massachusetts Representative Treadway, who denounces Secretary Hull's so-called reciprocal trade treaties and says:

"To sacrifice one domestic industry to foreign competition in the hope of increasing the export market of another is just a case of taking from Peter to give to Paul without any net benefit to the country as a whole.

"The Administration HAS NO RIGHT TO IMPOVERISH ONE GROUP TO HELP ANOTHER."

The Administration not only has no RIGHT to impoverish one group of Americans for the benefit of another group, but it is NOT POSSIBLE.

What the trade treaties have accomplished is to provide markets for foreign goods, to make business for foreign factories and to make work for foreign labor.

No American factory or producer or worker can profit from that.

American recovery has been SET BACK in the exact proportion that foreign goods have been admitted under the treaties, and American prosperity will be postponed exactly as long as Congressional action leaves them as a burden on the American people is postponed.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT continues to reward his personal friends for personal service; his selection of former Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan is merely additional proof.

Like the Hopkins appointment as Secretary of Commerce and the Black appointment to the Supreme Court, the Murphy appointment is due to loyalty to Mr. Roosevelt as an individual.

Unlike Mr. Hopkins however Mr Murphy is unquestionably competent for the post to which he has been appointed in the cabinet. He is a good man even though he was a bad governor. He has been a good lawyer and also a good judge, and, because of training and experience ought to be a good attorney-general.

The Murphy appointment is certainly much better than the Hopkins appointment or the Black appointment, for in addition to rewarding a friend, the President has really selected a competent servant of the people.

MORE GOOD WILL between the employer and worker is the aim of Governor Saltonstall, who wisely tells us:

"We have got to see that the good policy feeling between boss and job holder is not only continued but wherein we can make even stronger this common bond."

That is sound American common sense. The modern industrial organization may be likened to the human body, the management representing the head and the workers the torso, legs and arms. The WHOLE must proceed UNITEDLY.

FLOOD CONTROL again haunts a meeting of New England's six governors, but little is done.

Yet the menace of raging rivers is as REAL in this section as it was four years ago.

Our governors should be down at the conference table with Washington officials, and forget all differences, lest disaster visit us again—as it most surely will, unless something is accomplished.

Let us solve the flood control problem NOW.

COLONEL RUPPERT, dead in New York at the age of 71, was affectionately known to thousands of New Englanders who never met him.

They knew him, not as one of the nation's richest men, but as the proud and successful owner of the pennant-winning Yankees, in the hard-boiled, heartless, class-less world of baseball.

As long as the great American game is played, Colonel Ruppert, one of its "immortals," will be remembered and revered.

The Human Side of the News

Reformers Hit Washington

By EDWIN C. HILL

TO THIS DESK has come an alarming report from an organization calling itself the Patriot Guard of America headed by Captain Hazard Page Gaston, who gets his title as a reserve officer of the New York National Guard.

From its Washington headquarters, the organization boldly issues its charge that our national legislators are "gamblers." In four or five closely typed, single-space pages of matter sent that is amplified into a picture of Washington and its environs particularly Maryland, as having been belched right up out of Sheol. It's a truly horrendous picture of moral depravity.

THIS IS TYPICAL of the charges of the Patriot Guard:

"Washington is [illegible] a black stain. Capital and near Capital gaming houses and other underworld establishments are responsible for a long list of murders, suicides, white-slavery cases and embezzlements, as well as immorality, among the multitude of sometimes inexperienced young people. Blackmailing de luxe abounds in Washington. It has been said that many Congressmen and high officials are regularly shaken down under threat of revelations back home."

An enclosed printed sheet says: "We have been urged to take the lead in the present crisis, as our Patriot Guard occupies a unique position in these days of danger."

Who has been doing the urging is not explained, but it is elsewhere stated that the Guard is "a semi-secret organization of civic minded and retired army and navy officers, and other men and women heading patriotic units numbering millions of adherents.

Captain Gaston is a brother of the late Lucy Page Gaston of Chicago, a frail little woman, who, with truly ferocious energy, fought throughout her lifetime against cigarette smoking.

Now near seventy, he always provides dash of color and high romance in his various Messianic doings. One of the "releases" in his 1933 rum war was

"As secrecy is so important a deal of our work, we do not publish the names of our workers. Letters are promptly burned, when so desired, and our secret telegraphic and telephonic codes are changed frequently to prevent leakage."

AIRMAN'S GLIMPSE OF CAPITAL
Here, Patriotic Guards See Dark Clouds

FROM HENRY, III, Captain Gaston started romping Mt. Popocatapetl and other tall peaks, lived among the Zuni Indians, was decorated by the Sultan of Turkey, lived in England for thirty years and came here to rout the rum demon at the first Roosevelt inaugural. Like his sister, he has more fun than a game of cops and robbers. He tremendously enjoys eradicating this and that

WHEN WE HAULED in the limp trophy, we saw that it was a volume new to us. It was a Gypsy Dream Book. Which indicated that the studious-looking lady was a student of the form sheet, the numbers and the Irish Sweepstakes. You might like to get some of the information:

EGGS, a sign of money unless the eggs are stale; Prince of Wales, riches are on the way; rat catcher, you have a friend in need; vinegar, an absent friend is thinking of you; cucumber, you will recover from your next illness. Which will probably be caused by eating them; mad dog, falsehood will be unmasked and unfair allegations disproved.

WE'VE BEEN READING the criticism of a couple of plays that opened in New York recently. One was a play that the critics agreed held some serious thought. There was in it, they said, the germs of social protest.

The author, they admitted, was trying hard to say something of importance. It was the general verdict, however, that he has not said it importantly enough.

On the basis of that verdict the probabilities are the play will not be a success commercially. A play that is not a success commercially seldom lasts very long.

The other play, the critics said, was about as off-color a segment of the drama as had ever been dropped upon the New York State. A bawdy thing, they said it was. They indicated it had no social message or import and some even suggested that it was unnecessary. But they nearly all thought it frightfully funny.

So it will probably be what they call a hit and great happiness will prevail among one and all connected with the enterprise. The author of the non-success will return to his penthouse, or wherever playwrights nest nowadays, and reflect on the futility of trying to do something important, at least as a commercial proposition.

MAYBE he will write another play. If he is smart he will dispense with the idea of trying to make it important and just endeavor to make it entertaining and in that way he may find he has done something important, after all.

It is our guess that a lot of the things in this world that turned out to be something important, not only in writing, but in other fields were not deliberately designed as important by the authors.

When Mark Twain sat down to write Huckleberry Finn he did not have in mind the writing of something important. He wanted to tell a tale of his boyhood that he thought would interest and entertain his readers and bring him in a few boffoes. He probably had not the faintest idea in the world that it would one day be regarded as his greatest story.

LIKE MARK TWAIN writing Huckleberry Finn, Abraham Lincoln had no notion that he was doing something important when he jotted down his immortal Gettysburg Speech on a scrap of paper. He was going to Gettysburg to play second fiddle to another speaker with a big old blunderbuss of a speech in his system and Lincoln intended his own effort to be extremely brief and a sort of filler-in.

Well, as a matter of fact it was some time after he made his address at Gettysburg that it commenced to be recognized for what it was. A lot of editorial writers of the day gave it a good panning and said it was weak and futile. They had no idea and we doubt that Lincoln did either that it was to take rank as one of the mightiest oratorical efforts of the ages.

Often a movie director out in Hollywood decides that he wants to do something important. So he makes a picture that costs a million and is box office arsenic and a fellow around the corner who just wants to make a picture turns out something like the Hardys for eight bucks and grosses over a million and that is something important, in spades.

This New York -:- -:- by Lucius Beebe

INFORMED PERSONS around the town are getting a hearty snicker out of the circumstance that that curious night club which so widely advertised itself as closed to the reporters and photographers, and whose subscribers so smugly announced they would tolerate no publicity (and immediately scrammed out of there for the Stork and El Morocco, where they could be sure of rating press attention), having blown up with a resounding bang, is going to be reopened as a public deadfall and various editors and paragraphers around town are being consulted as to how to make it a go.

Even allowing for the fact that most of the original sponsors of these preposterous premises were well beyond the age where the most adroitly wielded camera could conceivably be flattering, the loud fanfares with which they announced that their saloon was going to be, oh so private, made them over night the town's first comedians.

The night after the opening, when to the immense chagrin of the members, no single reporter or cameraman had shown the slightest interest in the proceedings Ed Winchell discovered the entire board of directors discussing what to do at the bar at Jack and Charlie's, and from that moment on the club was the most humorous flopp of the last two seasons. Now the management of the hotel which owns the place wants to open it as a muzhik trap where all the great public with its lovely, lovely money will be welcome.

• • •

FOR A COUPLE of decades now, the camera has threatened the reported and printed word as the paramount news recording device. Its potentialities have been obvious: it was spectacular. Instantaneous in its impact on the consciousness of the beholder and it was graphic to folk who could neither read nor write.

But the essential editorial mendacity of photographic reporting will, in the end, be its undoing and already there are visible signs and portents that the camera, as a dominant news device, isn't here to stay. The editors of a well-known picture-magazine, than whom there are none more astute, have begun to see the defects of photography as an authentic record and are now employing the old-time sketch artist to supplement their camera record, and it's drachmas to obols that other picture-record magazines and even newspapers will follow their lead.

LUCIUS BEEBE AND LIBBY HOLMAN REYNOLDS AT EL MOROCCO
Top Hat Columnist and Torch Singer Issue at Metropolitan Fashion Spot

Contrary of course, to the aphorism that "the camera never lies" the camera is always and inevitably a liar. It records the unessential with all the emphasis it lends to things that are important and its record is always instantaneous and incomplete. It can flatter people and it can abuse them, often enough without the volition of the cameraman.

Take a shot of Albert Einstein at the split-second moment when his eyes are closed and his mouth open and he looks like a Bedlamite. Get Gargantua the circus ape, in a happy interlude and he's lovelier than Mr. Clark Gable. The camera can make Mrs. Harrison Williams a frump and even make Miss Elsa Maxwell look as though she were a part of the scene she's always talking about.

Make no mistake about it, the camera as a news device, while it is at the moment perhaps more powerful than words and certainly more palatable to the many is just as often a liar as it is truthful. It has no editorial judgment. The pen and ink artist can exercise the same discretion in editorializing his material that a trained reporter can presenting what is essential discarding the incidental and flavoring with suitable amounts of colors.

The magazine is smart enough to see that the sketch artist can apprehend a lot that a photographer can't and is bringing him back into vogue as a reporting agency. Other editors will eventually do the same.

That onetime local society reporter made no bit by remarking to Peter Arno that she enjoyed so much his covers on a magazine cover . . . The artist referred to is Jaro Hurty . . . Notable for her terrible mistakes in print the same onetime word singer had already made a grand entry at the same party by slipping on a rug and doing an elegant prattfal, to which Mrs. Chet La Roche, standing near by, remarked sweetly: "There you go again, Molly, always falling on your face!"

LUCIUS BEEBE, columnist, raconteur and bon vivant, brings to Boston Evening American readers a gilt-edge record of the good living, good humor and good spectacle that makes New York the glamour city of modern times. Each Saturday he observes and writes in the grand manner of the fabled world where dressing for dinner and imported motor cars are taken for granted.

Sunday's Paper

by Anthony Merrill

YOUR SUNDAY PAPER awaits you, bigger and better. Your Advertiser, its Green Magazine and the American Weekly offer hours and volumes of information, instruction and amusement for every member of the family.

Particularly do we like Austen Lake's Green Magazine story about two eminent sons, Louis D. Brandeis and Felix Frankfurter. Here, interestingly told is a REAL success story.

Then there's a Harvard feature, an imagined visit to the University's employment bureau. You will be surprised to learn students are prepared to fill every kind of job, from snake charming to caring for Junior.

You will surely like the American Weekly's new novel, "Death and the Maiden," by Q. Patrick, brilliant author of "College Sinister" and "The Grindle Nightmare." Beautifully illustrated, the story concerns young love and evil mystery in a Co-Ed college.

Prosperity interests everybody, and undoubtedly you're no exception. That's why we now say, "Read the article by Frank Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce." It has to do with our growing shipping industry.

"Must" reading for you if you are a job-holding young woman or a parent is the Green Magazine's feature about the working girl and her problems. This is not the usual, moth-eaten advice about budgets. It is sound, sane and PRACTICAL opinion. Don't miss it.

FATHERS AND SONS, without fail, will turn to the interview with Dean Everett W. Lord of Boston University College of Business Administration. This IS a business-like talk.

Excellent and thoroughly enjoyable, too, are Elizabeth Reynard's Cape Cod tale, amusingly titled, "Granny Squamit and the Wicked Boy"; Baroness Catherine De Hueck's informative story about America's social worries, and Mary N. Sullivan's chats with European girl refugees who have found shelter and happiness in Boston.

If you pay an income tax, you certainly will not neglect the facts given by Thomas B. Bassett, acting collector of internal revenue.

THE SPORTS SECTION, bringing you the results of ALL Park Department League basketball games and the very latest news about other important athletic activities, presents Jack Dempsey.

Jack tells how he would have defeated Joe Louis, had he the opportunity. It is the former champion's own story.

Ann Marsters introduces you to Bess Ehrhardt, glittering star of the Ice Follies. What does Miss Ehrhardt think of Sonja Henie? She'll let you know tomorrow.

Editor Jack Conway learns important facts about horse racing from Charles F. Adams, who, incidentally, tell his own interesting life story.

THE AMERICAN WEEKLY continues its march to perfection. You will enjoy its every feature and page, particularly these stories:

"Didn't Want Their Daughter to Marry a Millionaire," "Must Scrub Prison Floors for Ten Years Unless," "Who Broke Miss Lillian Ward's Zygoma Bone?", "Who's Who in the Dictionary," "Hanged! But Outlived His Jury," "He Said He Would," "Strange Secrets of the African Jungle," and "Why Old Maids Outlive Married Women."

RESOLVE NOW to buy your Boston Sunday Advertiser, bright and early tomorrow morning. We promise you, it is the SURE way to make your day perfect.

Senators See Real Harry Hopkins

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK CITY—Harry Hopkins' testimony on how good he will be as Secretary of Commerce was different from most of such appearances. It was Harry Hopkins whom the Committee saw and heard.

It was all of him—the best and the worst of him without any false whiskers of bluff, pretense, alibi or excuse.

He expressed blind devotion to the President. He also expressed it to his assistant, Mr. Aubrey Williams, whom he described as a "great" public servant and a "great man."

That reveals one of Mr. Hopkins' shortcomings as an executive. He doesn't select good assistants and after he has selected them nothing can shake his support of them—no matter how they turn out to be. Mr. Williams was one of the "awfullest."

I hope Mr. Hopkins will make a good Secretary of Commerce.

I base it on Harry's unusual zip, brains, honesty and his intense devotion to whatever he is doing. If they alone were to be considered I would be absolutely certain that he will hang up a record.

But those qualities do not stand alone. They stand with the others already mentioned and also, as clearly revealed in his testimony, his fanatical personal devotion, regardless of reason, and his ineptitude in selecting what in NRA, the boys called "Joes"—meaning executive assistants.

If Harry doesn't get him some good "Joes" who are wise where he is weak in the essential needs of business he can't possibly click.

Furthermore, if the President revives his frequent mood of bitter hostility to business to make it come crawling on its hands and knees to meet not its match, but its master—Mr. Hopkins will have to decide whether he will be blindly loyal or economically efficient.

If he should slip for these reasons you can't help liking a man who fails from faithfulness to friends.

Betty Alden on Beacon Hill

THEY WON'T PUT us on the society page for our society column today so we can't print all the 604 names of the guarantors of the Boston Opera Association . . . But it might be interesting to you a little idea of what the guarantors are . . .

The guarantors pay for the privilege of making possible the autumn opening engagement of the Metropolitan Opera Company here in Boston . . . As reward for their generosity (it costs financially less than nothing) they are invited to the first night performance . . .

A few years ago this was a concert with a lot of social distinction, but somehow, during the last few years, it has become pretty fog-bound and the guarantors' list has been augmented by many names which have caused it to acquire the aroma of being somewhat on the nouveau side . . .

In recent years the financial risk of being a guarantor has been very small for the season has been practically sold out before the curtain has gone up . . .

The last time the opera was in Boston was the most interesting in the Boston's history, coming Thursday evening, March 30, and closing Saturday evening, March 25.

Loyal Patrons of Music

Members of the Boston Opera Association's women's committee are busily engaged in preparations for the annual ball . . . Mrs. Henry H. Whiting Lodge is president . . . Other members include Mrs. Lowell Mellen, Mrs. Arthur T. Lyon, Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Mrs. Joseph B. Manning, Mrs. Osgood and Mrs. Taylor . . .

The ranks of 1939 patrons include many of those who have been consistent supporters of opera for years . . . Among them are Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brooks, Dr. and Mrs. J. Louis Bremer, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Brownell, Jr., Mrs. Edward L. Burlingame, Mrs. Alvin Bulkley, Mrs. Louis Curtis, Mrs. Malcolm Graham Hamblen and Mrs. William Tudor Gardiner . . .

Names which are missing from previous lists in New England social circles are also included in the list . . . The Cabots are represented by Henry Cabot of Dover, while Mrs. John Lowell and Robert T. S. Lowell uphold the reputation of their famous kin as patrons of music and art . . .

Kathleen Keville to Wed

KATHLEEN KEVILLE, blonde daughter of Colonel and Mrs. William J. Keville of Belmont, is the newest member of the local post-debutante set to join ranks of future brides . . . Kathleen's heart and hand have been won by Claude Douglas Cairns of Norwalk, Ct., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Claude F. Cairns of Belmont . . .

The bride-to-be graduated from Brimmer School before making her social bow at a tea dance at the Algonquin Club in the autumn of 1934, and since her debut she has taken courses at Endicott . . . Mr. Cairns prepared at Chauncey Hall for M. I. T. from which he graduated in 1936 . . . There are no immediate plans for the wedding . . .

Miss Barbara Kendall of Cohasset is holidaying in the sunny south . . . Her responsibilities as assistant head usher at the Morning Musicales are being assumed by Mrs. John B. Millet (Betty Watson), whose interest in music is well known to her Vincent Club and Junior League contemporaries . . . Betty has a sweet singing voice which has won her a number of leading roles in recent Vincent shows . . .

She will undertake her new job next Wednesday morning at the fourth musicale of the season, when Nathan Milstein, violinist, is guest artist . . . Sue Storey will be on hand to head the debutante usher group which includes such attractive girls as Helen Mead, Edith Shaw, Camilla White, Ruth Weyburn, Anne Gurney, Hope Halsey, Diana Bird, Polly Blodgett, Nancy Nye, Eleanor Rice, Dorothy Storer and Dorothy Comstock . . .

Debutante Honored At Many New York Parties

DIANA FRASER, daughter of Cecil Fraser of Cambridge, listens attentively as one of her sister debutantes renders a popular song through the mike at a recent coming out party. Miss Fraser has just returned from a round of debutante festivities in New York.

Ceremony In St. Louis

Looking even more radiant in her bridal lace and satin than when she was crowned Queen of the May during her senior year at college, Georgia Simmons of St. Louis, Mo., becomes the wife of Harlan Pierpont, Jr. of Worcester this afternoon in a fashionable wedding in her home city.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs George W. Simmons and a sister of Mrs. S. Hallock du Pont of Wilmington, and Mrs. John Cargo of St. Louis. She has often visited in Boston, where she is a great favorite in younger social circles.

Mr. Pierpont, son of Mr. and Mrs Harlan T. Pierpont of Worcester, graduated from Harvard in 1936, where his clubs included Hasty Pudding, Phoenix S. K., and Institute of 1770. His sisters, Janet Pierpont, who made her debut here last winter, and Mrs William Waldo Gross (Dorothy Pierpont) are both taking part in the bridal procession today.

Senior Philomatheia Dance Next Friday

A prominent group of Boston folk will serve as patrons for the Senior Philomatheia supper dance next Friday evening, in the main ballroom of the Copley-Plaza.

The dance, one of the largest of the mid-winter season will attract club members and Boston College seniors and their escorts, the college year book benefits from the undertaking being arranged by Mrs. William T. O'Hallorgan of Newtonville and Miss Helen G. Toal of Chestnut Hill.

WILL LEAD MARCH

Highlight of the evening will be a grand march led by Richard Casey, senior class president and Virginia Foley of Belmont. Student chairman of the committee is Maurice Casey, whose aides all members of Boston College '39 are Vincent O'Donnell, Lawrence Dorgan, Francis Hyland, Timothy Leary, Gerard Coughlin and Edward Bolan. Acting as faculty moderator is Dr. Eliot J. Sullivan, member of the Boston College graduate school.

Among the patrons are Mrs. Leonard Cronin, Mrs. Patrick J. Hearn of Chestnut Hill, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kelly of Brighton, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Sullivan of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Mahoney of Brighton.

AMONG SPONSORS

Among those in charge of the affair are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Maguire of Brighton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mahoney of Jamaica Plain, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Moriarty of Jamaica Plain, Mrs. Mary J. Mahoney of Jamaica Plain, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Lyons of Jamaica Plain, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Mahoney, Brighton, and Mrs. Mary Gilligan of Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hart of Brighton, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Desmond of Jamaica Plain, Mr. and Mrs. John Waterman of Cambridge.

Chaperons are Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bagnall of Dorchester and Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Donahue of Boston.

Sargent-Taylor Ceremony Today

Many Bostonians are motoring over the Mohawk Trail today en route for Deerfield to attend the wedding of Mary Elizabeth Taylor to Winthrop Welch Sargent, son of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sargent of Concord and the late Winthrop Sargent.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Stedman Taylor of Deerfield and Boston who is receiving with the newlyweds at the Deerfield Women's Club, following the ceremony in First Congregational Church.

Mrs. John Hartwell, the bride's sister, heads the bridal procession as matron of honor, and other attendants include Judith Colt, Margaret Whitney, Mrs. Henry F. Hemholz and Anne Longhurst.

Mr. Sargent and his bride will join the colony of young marrieds living in historic Concord. He is a graduate of Harvard with the class of 1932, and also received a degree from Harvard Business School.

Trinity Grads To Conduct Tea

A host of active members of the Boston Chapter of Trinity College Women will preside over a tea at the College Club in Commonwealth avenue next Saturday afternoon.

The affair will be given for students contemplating entering Trinity and their mothers. The program will include talks on phases of activities at the school, presented by Mary Porter, a Boston debutante daughter of the Andrew I. Porters and Mary Lord Stetson, past president of the chapter.

During the afternoon Dr. Anna P. Rittler, head of the department of English at Connecticut College for Women, will talk on college entrance requirements.

General committee of the tea includes Miss Peggy Sullivan, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan L. Sullivan of Dedham Hall. Her assistants are Miss Jean Clark Cox of Wellesley, president of the Junior Service League of Christian Endeavor, and Miss Marie Murphy of Newton, treasurer, and Betty Bowen of Lynn, secretary.

Agnes McHugh To Wed Soon

Among the season's popular engaged girls is Agnes McHugh, whose forthcoming marriage to William Hogan, Jr. of Cambridge was announced at a party at her home in Everett.

Agnes was a graduate of Boston Academy of Notre Dame and Emmanuel College, was very much sought after by society and received an original message announcing her engagement.

Her mother, Mrs. Austin McHugh, will be hostess at her home with a number of gardenias. Among those serving at the tea table were Mary and Dorothy Hogan, sisters of the future bridegroom, Catherine and Jane Ryan, Mrs. Paul Grady, Grace Mahoney and Eleanor Sullivan.

League Orchestra Cheers Shut-Ins

Peggy Stuart, musical director of the Junior League, is devoting most of her time to conducting the League's orchestra in a number of concerts for shut-ins at hospitals and other institutions.

This morning the girls played for patients at the Ellis Memorial. Other dates include a concert at the Home for Little Wanderers, and one in the League ballroom on March 2.

North Shore Group Plans Novel Ball

Salem which has long been the stronghold of New England traditions and culture, is introducing a bit of novelty into the social scene by sponsoring a ball to benefit the Kosciusko Foundation, an organization which promotes intellectual and cultural relations between Poland and the United States.

Many prominent North Shore residents are sponsoring the affair, which is called "A Night in the Tatra Mountains Ball," and scheduled for the evening of January 25 in the State Armory, Salem.

Heading the patroness committee is Mrs. Henry B. Benson, with the assistance of Miss Elizabeth Coggin, Mrs. John Pickering, Mrs. Charles F. Ropes and Mrs. W. Sidney Felton.

Additional patrons include Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Tuckerman, 21, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Standish Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Phippen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrison, John K. Howard, Louis Agassiz Shaw, 2d, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shreve, and Mr. and Mrs. George Van Antwerp.

Winter Salads

By MARTHA LEE

Experiences this past week have reminded many of us that greens for the salad bowl in winter are something for which we have to [illegible]

Time was when a winter salad was cabbage salad or cold slaw and crisp celery. Perhaps we have reached that it was the height of winter gaiety to serve [illegible] Happily the salad bowl has much good variety.

When a [illegible] we have about some of the [illegible] so frequently on [illegible] So we offer some suggestions for the sake of variety.

HOT CHICORY SALAD

CHINESE CABBAGE SALAD

Use the leafy end of [illegible] cabbage into [illegible] It has a [illegible] not to [illegible] Lay the ring in a [illegible] pan or dish and [illegible] Finely [illegible] to which [illegible] chopped [illegible] Allow to marinate for an hour before serving.

COTTAGE CHEESE DRESSING

Cottage cheese dressing is equally [illegible] served with [illegible] It is [illegible] salad. A [illegible] is added when [illegible]

[illegible]

Here cottage cheese [illegible] a fine [illegible] Mix [illegible] and add cheese. Every [illegible] green onion tops can be substituted for chives, if the latter are not available.

Cottage cheese acquires a new flavor by adding chopped chives, parsley or a dash of garlic. Rub the salad bowl with a clove of garlic. Soften one pound of cottage cheese with sufficient cream to make the right consistency. Add 2 tablespoons of chopped chives, two of chopped parsley and a dash of tabasco sauce. Garnish with paprika and serve with crisp crackers.

The old fashioned "country" way of softening cottage cheese with rich, sour cream, seasoning with salt and pepper, and caraway seed, if you wish, never tires the family's appetite for it.

VEGETABLE SALAD

[illegible]

Toss all vegetables together lightly in a bowl with about ¼ cup French dressing. A small amount of minced onion or sliced scallions adds flavor. Garnish with hard cooked eggs and serve on crisp lettuce.

MANNERS

Divorcee's Name

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am divorced, and I obtained through court order my maiden name. Now, as I understand it, I am Miss Sarah B. Jones. There has been much controversy on this subject in the last few years. Please let me know if this is correct or is it not correct?

READER.

You are right about the correct form of your name, since you obtained court permission to resume your maiden name. When you resume your maiden name, you resume the "Miss" . . . so Miss Sarah B. Jones is correct.

KIT CARSON---Avenger! By EVELYN WELLS

Glory or Duty? Kit Makes Choice

CHAPTER 22

"What [illegible]" Commander Sloat exclaimed [illegible] the Stars and Stripes waved over Monterey, over all California and [illegible] marching southward to meet with Pio Pico, governor of Mexican California.

And [illegible] Commodore Sloat saw [illegible] a conquering [illegible] led by the mad ardor of [illegible] young Fremont, and [illegible] all precedent, forty [illegible] of mere [illegible]

[illegible] Fremont and his [illegible] He said [illegible] Away to sail out of Monterey Bay for the East [illegible] command and responsibility [illegible] to the young [illegible] Commodore Robert F. Stockton, of [illegible] Congress with the Pacific squadron.

[illegible] Fremont was [illegible] Commodore Stockton [illegible] the Army of the West. He had conquered New Mexico without bloodshed. He [illegible] to the conquest of California.

No one knew better than Kit what dangers threatened the band. Hostile Apaches and enemy Mexicans beset their trail. Thundering past a New Mexican mesa they rode into an ambush of Apaches. Tempted by a [illegible] parley and used his honeyed eloquence.

The Apache chief was [illegible] a "big American chief," he told Kit was riding through their land declaring it no longer Mexican, but American.

The big chief's name was Kearney.

This puzzled Kit, riding on toward Taos.

He was daring to dream now of many things—love, glory, honor. In Taos with Josefa, the beloved girl-wife he had not seen since leaving with Fremont to explore California. With her warm image in his heart Kit urged on his band, not pausing to hire [illegible] eating parched corn as they rode.

"There will be a few hours with her—before we ride on to Washington," Kit promised himself.

He thought of Washington. He would be made, perhaps, a [illegible]? Perhaps a major?

Over the desert in the direction of Taos rose a cloud of dust, and in the dust resolved grey figures of an army, riding in columns [illegible] a baggage train and heavy guns. General Kearney was leading his army west!

Kit met Kearney on the Rio Grande, [illegible] New Mexico. With Kearney were three of Kit's old companions of trapping days, Fitzpatrick, serving as guide, Antoine Robidoux as interpreter, and Stanley the frontier artist.

ASTOUNDING NEWS!

Kit gave his news, quietly, but flaming with pride.

"California is already conquered, General Kearney!"

The proud and ambitious Kearney whitened with disappointment.

Kit's news electrified the Army of the West.

"No need for us to go on," said many.

Hundreds of Kearney's volunteers turned back three of his five companies. But Kearney, [illegible] orders and would go on.

His army had progressed but one hundred and fifty miles in eleven days. Kit, leaving Los Angeles twenty-six days before, had covered eight hundred miles.

"You won't reach Los Angeles in four months at the rate you are going," Kit told Kearney unfortunately.

Kearney's mouth [illegible] like a trap.

"Then you can guide us there, Carson."

It was Kit's turn to [illegible]

"But I'm carrying dispatches, General. I'm making time."

Another man will carry your news of the conquest to Washington. I guarantee the safety of your dispatches. Your place is at the head of my men, leading us."

For a moment Kit did not answer.

Onward, to love and glory? Or back to California?

In that harsh moment Kit saw his duty clearly. His place was beside General Kearney, leading the Army of the West into a California already conquered.

"I'll guide you, General," he said humbly.

His face was granite. In that moment Kit gave up all hope of fame and promotion in Washington. Farewell [illegible] for when could he hope to see Josefa again, in Taos? Kit's precious dispatches he entrusted to Fitzpatrick, who rode off with them eastward.

Kit turned back to California at the head of the Kearney men.

DUTY TRIUMPHS

And to Kit this was [illegible] sacrifice, but honor. Honor to Kit meant trust and fidelity, not glory. This moment in his life, over-looked by history, sounds the keynote of Kit Carson.

It was Kit's doom to be at the mercy of inexperienced superiors. Advancing at last upon San Diego, in southern California, Kit advised taking a certain route. General Kearney stipulated another.

"But we will advance into the outposts of the Mexican army," protested Kit.

"Mexicans!" snorted Kearney. "I am just from the Mexican border, and I know Mexicans. They are not fighters. What if we do meet them! We'll go through their ranks like butter."

"You do not know California Mex," thought Kit, but did not argue.

As a soldier, Kit admired Kearney whose eyes were as blue and flashing as Fremont's. But Kit would admit later that it was with "great hesitation" that he served as guide to Kearney's army. The First Dragoons there were only 121 of them now [illegible] followed Kit's old trapping trail. They had traveled nearly 2000 miles, and were worn haggard by the desert, hunger and thirst.

Ragged, nearly naked, burned black by the sun, shoeless, thin with hunger and carrying rusted rifles, a mere scarecrow army never answered to reveille. Nearly all were afoot. Some led horses too weak to carry them. Some were mounted on half-broken unmanageable mules.

Kit, leading, saw scurrying away into the cactus a Mexican peon mounted on a burro. He pursued, and returned with the man to Kearney. On the thin back paper that held the bitter tobacco of the Mexicans cigarettes were messages sent to General Castro, driven into Mexico by Fremont, from General Jose Flores in California.

"I have successfully led revolution in California. The detested Yankee yoke is thrown off. The gringoes are driven out of Los Angeles and Santa Barbara.

"The tricolor again floats over California — it is Mexican as a more! Return!"

The "poor peon" who bore this message was later revealed as a colonel in the Mexican army.

The message had been written a month and a half before. What might have happened in that time?

Kit had no way of knowing that Fremont and 428 Americans were marching southward, determined to retake Los Angeles.

ENEMY FIRES!

Kearney was appalled by his position. He had sent back the greater part of his men. He was alone, in a foreign land, in revolution, with little more than 100 exhausted men.

They tried to make haste, through burning days that blackened their nearly naked bodies, through desert nights that numbed them with cold. Only one horse was left alive and a few exhausted mules.

Then—San Diego was only 40 miles away! Commodore Stockton, Kit knew, was at the presidio or San Diego with his sailors. The weary army camped on the main road, El Camino Real, blocking the entrance to Mexico.

But between them and San Diego lay the Californian army, led by Andreas Pico, the deposed Mexican governor whose [illegible] had been resumed by [illegible]

Kit rode out to scout. At the little Indian village of San Pascual 30 miles from San Diego, he saw the enemy fires.

"We will have to fight through them," said Kearney. And on the bitterly cold night of December 5 he [illegible] his men. We attack at dawn."

They slept [illegible] their ragged blankets we with [illegible] from the nearby [illegible] At [illegible] morning the night [illegible] A bitter [illegible] for even General Kearney was [illegible] on a jaded and [illegible] But from the [illegible] Kearney [illegible] ordered his men [illegible] a walk, then to a trot, [illegible] a charge — upon a force larger, stronger, better mounted and fed and armed; superior [illegible] "Army of the West."

Pico's army [illegible] the attack. The Californians [illegible] by their arms that night, [illegible] stolen horses.

Kearney led [illegible] leading twenty Americans [illegible] the hillside [illegible] was [illegible] white-walled house behind [illegible] Indians. Riding down the hill Kit felt the [illegible] of the [illegible] house fell [illegible] and he heard the [illegible] to his [illegible] rifle broke.

THE AVENGER RIDES

Lying on the ground [illegible] has head for protection while the others [illegible] on their unruly mules, Kit saw the Mexican camp. General Pico had his men [illegible] saddle on the capable well-fed horses Mexicans [illegible] Dragoons, pistols and [illegible] thundered, and over the [illegible] like lightning strokes the [illegible] steel-tipped lances of the Californians.

Watching, Kit saw Captain Johnson die, with a rifle ball through his head and many [illegible] thrusting his body through.

"At brave a man as ever felt the breath of life," thought Kit.

Kit struggled to his feet. A Dragoon fell from his mule. Kit caught up the dying man's rifle, mounted the mule, joined the supporting army of fifty Americans hurrying down the brushy hill.

"Retreat!" the wily Pico was shouting in Spanish.

Dr. Dafoe Warns Against Sugars

By ALLAN ROY DAFOE, M. D.
Personal Physician to the Dionne Quintuplets
(Copyright, 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Babies who are bottle-fed very often suffer from too much sugar. We had fairly serious trouble with the Quintuplets getting too much sugar in the early days.

That is the reason we never let them have extra sugar between meals.

With the bottle-fed child, the sugar has to be added because cow's milk doesn't contain enough for all his needs. Different sugars may be used but if too much is given the result is always the same — the child develops diarrhea.

If the child is getting too little sugar in his diet, then the child becomes constipated and more sugar has to be added to the diet. I haven't encountered this complaint of insufficient sugar very often in the 30 years I've been practicing. It has been the other way round.

I have known parents to give candy to the baby to soothe him. Soothing syrups often depend largely on sugar to do their soothing. This sugar is of course bad.

I want to caution all parents against the habit of experimenting with the baby's feedings. If you think he isn't getting the right formula, don't go on the old system of trying until you find something that agrees with him.

An immense amount of harm can be done your child by inadequate or incorrect feeding during his first few months of life. Call your doctor the minute you think a change in diet is indicated.

I give this advice because time and time again I've been called to a home after a mother has exhausted the advice of all her neighbors in the matter of feeding her child. All the old-fashioned cures and remedies in the neighborhood were tried on the delicate system of the baby, and when they failed, then the doctor was called.

The result has been a sick child with weeks required to bring him back to normal.

Most of the more serious disturbances in the first few months of a child's life come to babies who are bottle fed. About the only thing that can go wrong with the meals of a breast fed child is that he gets too little or too much.

Is it any wonder that I am always advising mothers to nurse their babies when it is at all possible?

Sometimes children who are well will vomit. When this happens there are two common causes to check. Either the child is nursing too fast, or it is handled after feeding.

MR. BOSTON

Why Louis Will Win Over Lewis ⁞ Weight Handicap Will Decide Go

By JACK CONWAY

Mr Boston

I DO NOT believe a GOOD little fighter can spot a GOOD big fighter 25 pounds and expect to win.

Therefore I believe Joe Louis will be successful in defending his world's heavyweight championship against John Henry Lewis, former world's light heavyweight champion, in the New York Garden on January 23.

The result might have been different if the bout had been staged two or three years ago. Lewis was then a great, fast fighter and Louis was only a fair big fighter.

During the past two years Louis has improved greatly, while Lewis has slipped badly.

When Louis last won the championship title from Jimmy Braddock he drew the color line on Lewis. He did this because he was not certain that he could outpoint the light heavyweight king.

Louis gained confidence in himself as he knocked out Max Schmeling in two rounds, while he also found that Lewis had trouble defeating Lenny Adams in Detroit recently.

The scarcity of first class heavyweights also helped give Lewis his crack at the championship. Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club is at a loss for big fellows to send against the "Brown Bomber." He has lined up Lewis, Max Baer, Tony Galento and Lou Nova as possible opponents for the champion during 1939. I did not believe any of these men has a chance of winning from the title holder.

• • •

Lou Nova Lacking in Ring Experience

NOVA IS THE best prospect among the younger heavyweights but he requires two years of experience to enable him to have an even chance to win from the champion. Unfortunately, Nova will not be permitted to wait until he is ready for the "Brown Bomber." The urgent need of title bout opponents and a healthy box office will cause the promoters to sacrifice Nova this year.

Tom Walsh writes from Detroit he is planning to feature Galento in a bout in the Olympia in Detroit.

"Jimmy Adamle and Roscoe Toles were my best cards," writes Walsh, "but they both have been moved out on me. I am turning to Galento who is pretty hot as a result of the extensive ballyhoo he has received. Jack Kearns is teamed up with me in promoting boxing in Detroit, and I think we shall be able to get things going again."

• • •

Casey World's Most Powerful Athlete

STEVE CASEY, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, is the only man in the world who could overpower Joe Louis. For Steve to do so it would have to be a mixed match, or in a room behind closed doors.

Even Louis could not stand up before Casey if the latter were permitted to name his own rules. Once a fighter is off his feet, he cannot punch.

Boxers are more sensitive than thoroughbred race horses, and a yanking of an arm or the twisting of a leg would put the best of them out of action if pitted against a top wrestler like Casey.

Casey recently proved his amazing power and wrestling ability against Hans Steinke of Germany in New York. There was a section of the wrestling world that considered Steinke the best of the heavyweights. Casey convinced this group it was wrong. Steve was even able to kick his way out of punishing toe holds.

Casey will meet one of his most severe tests when he collides with "The Shadow," mystery man of the mat, in a finish bout at the Garden on Thursday night. "The Shadow" has piled up a long run of victories. He has beaten Jim Casey, Yvon Robert and Dan O'Mahony among other wrestlers.

It is evident that "The Shadow" is one of the world's leading grapplers as he appears to have everything in the matter of wrestling holds. He has also displayed much power, while he has not concerned himself with rules. If "The Shadow" pins Casey it will be the first time a masked wrestler has ever been crowned champion.

Random Shots at Target

OPPORTUNITY will be knocking on the door of "Tiger" Warrenton quite loudly when the Nova Scotia heavyweight champion meets Bob Pastor in a ten-round bout at the Argonne A. A.'s opening show at Mechanics Building on next Thursday night . . . It will be Warrenton's most important match, and if he can win he can step into the big money over night . . . Bob MacKirdy has Warrenton training at a local gym, and he is of the opinion the "Tiger" will upset Pastor.

The death of Col. Jake Ruppert was a distinct loss to sports . . . He had a tremendous love for baseball, and did many things to increase the standing of the national pastime . . . Ruppert's lavish spending was helpful to minor league clubs which owned promising young players . . . The Colonel later established an extensive farm system which gave the Yankees needed strength, while it furnished employment and also baseball entertainment.

Ruth's home run hitting played an important part in the success of Ruppert and the Yankees . . . Ruppert had the courage to pay $125,000 for Ruth at a time when that kind of money was unheard of in baseball deals.

Burman Wins Duke From Farr

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 14 (INS)—Red Burman of Baltimore won a 10 round decision over Tommy Farr, of Wales, making it the Welshman's fifth defeat in five starts in the United States.

Though the verdict appeared cleanly earned after a battle of [illegible] body punching, the crowd of 9750 people sent forth a chorus of boos.

TALENT GALORE ON DERBY CARD

Daffodil Trio Back On Card

Among the many fine features which will go to make the Silver Skates Derby on Sunday, January 22, an outstanding ice carnival achievement, is the comedy and stunt offering of the "Daffodil Trio," three local boys, Howie Adams, Al Surette and Ted Lewis.

This famous trio, has recently won acclaim and popularity in leading ice palaces of New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

They are old Silver Skates Derby favorites, but this year come back with brand new acts and comedy, climaxed by a daring and sensational "Hades Jump" through and over barrels of flame by Adams.

Their exhibition will provide the ideal background for the performance of little Hazel Franklin, the lovely 13-year-old London miss who holds down the feature role.

PLENTY TALENT

There will be many other fine performances by talented artists of the blades to make for an entertaining afternoon and to vary the series of speed skating competitions.

At this writing, however, it is of utmost importance that every prospective entrant file his or her entry. Remember—Entries close next Tuesday at midnight and none can be accepted later. In order that every skater may be in the fold on the Derby Day, we urge one and all to file TODAY, if he or she hasn't already.

There will be some 400 to 500 contestants in all, more than one-third of them women and girls.

INSTRUCTION IN MAIL

Each and every one of these entrants will be recipients of cards of admission and instructions during the coming week. This card will be official recognition of their entry acceptance.

However, every entry thus far received has been duly tabulated and accepted as eligible. Which means that all who have thus far filed must report to the clerk of course, Boston Garden, no later than 12 noon one week from tomorrow.

All races, trials and finals will be concluded in the one afternoon, with sufficient time between so that no racer may be tired. The trials are short enough so that they won't take anything out of the skaters for the finals.

So heavy has been the recent batch of entries that space forbids the full mention of them. We ask all that have forgotten to register to do so TODAY.

Old Gray Mare Act Revived

Oscar Johnson of the famed incomparable team of ice comedians of Shipstad and Johnson, now showing at the Boston Garden with the "Ice Follies of 1939," announced that he and his partner will do the "Old Gray Mare" act at the matinee performance of this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon in addition to the other skating stunts these two funny men of the ice perform at every show.

Johnson said that they had received so many requests from fathers and mothers who are numbered among their thousands of admirers throughout New England to do this number for the benefit of the children at the Saturday and Sunday matinees, that they are only too willing and glad to help entertain the youngsters with this hilarious skit.

SWEETHEARTS. Above, Bess Ehrhardt, of Ice Follies fame, skates into spotlight with beautiful trophy she donated to Boston Evening American-Daily Record Silver Skates Derby. Below, Bess takes candid camera shot of hubby Roy Shipstad, another Follies star. Bess is featured in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production "Ice Follies of 1939," which will open shortly at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters.

Johnny Mack Stops Zodda in Fourth

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Johnny Mack, 139½, New Britain, knocked out Joe Zodda, 140, Bronx, N. Y., in 1:45 of the fourth round of a scheduled 10 rounds feature bout. Zodda was floored three times in the third only to be saved by the bell.

In other bouts, Wally Bansla, 179, New Britain, knocked out Neil Doherty, 175, Boston in 2:50 of the second round of a scheduled six-round semi-final; Bobby Ivy, 152, Hartford defeated Finky Morris, 150, Bridgeport, six rounds; Ralph Morgan, 157, Boston, defeated Al Lapiano, 136, New York, six rounds; Bobby Gibbons, 150, Bridgeport, and Jackie LaSalle, 130, Hartford, draw, four rounds.

Foley Knocks Out Drouillard in 5th

WORCESTER, Jan. 14 (AP)—Pat (Pinky) Foley, local lightweight boxer, pounded his way to a technical knockout victory over Orville Drouillard of Windsor, Ont. The end came in the fifth round, with Drouillard so helpless Referee George stopped the fight.

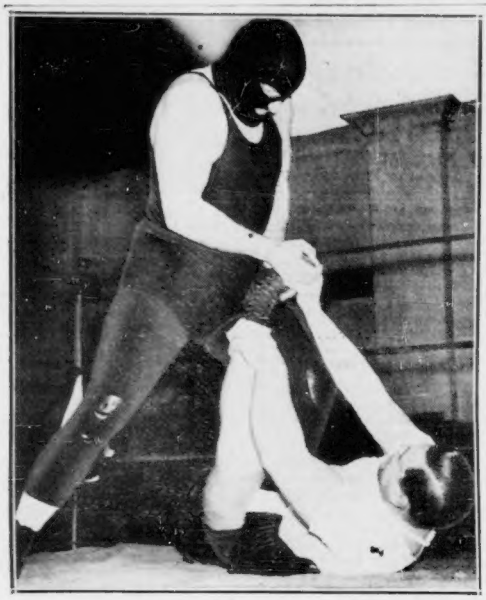
Special Bout for Gus Sonnenberg



Power No End The Shadow, masked wrestling marvel, practices toehold on training mate in preparation for his match with Steve Casey at Garden next week.

Casey Fears Shadow's Headlock

Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, one of the most colorful figures wrestling has ever seen, will attempt to continue his comeback next Thursday night when he appears in a special bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's tournament at the Boston Garden.

No opponent was signed for Sonny today, but he doesn't care who it will be.

"Get anyone," he told Bowser. "I'm out to win that title back and I won't get anywhere wrestling second and third raters. The better man you get the better I'll like it."

Thereupon Promoter Bowser sent out a flock of wires in an effort to get a formidable foe for Sonnenberg.

Meanwhile, the main bout principals—big Steve Casey, the world champion, and The Shadow, mat's mystery man—again whirled through brisk workouts.

SHADOW WORKS HEADLOCK

The Shadow, it was noticeable, did a lot of work on his headlock, the hold that has rushed him to the top in the past few months.

He openly brags that he can down any man with it and he says that goes especially for Irishmen. He is pretty near right at that, for in recent weeks he has conquered Dan O'Mahony and Jim Casey, brother of Steve, with the hold he clamps on like a vise.

Steve must realize the headlock is most dangerous, because in his training session he devoted plenty of time to getting away from such a hold.

Two training mates clamped it on him and he didn't seem to have much bother in breaking away. However, neither was The Shadow and Steve admits it might be a different story if the hooded grappler succeeds in locking his brawny arms around the champion's skull.

SONNY ON EDGE

Sonnenberg has been in rigid training and announced he will speed up his workouts now that he has another important bout ahead.

He plans to train each day at the Y. M. C. U. gymnasium.

Crimson, Tiger Sextets Clash

The first Quad League game of the year is slated for Boston Arena ice tonight, when the Princeton Tigers clash with Clark Hodder's Crimson sextet.

This will mark the fourth time these two old rivals have met this season. The two clubs met in a three-game affair at Lake Placid during the Christmas holidays, and the Tigers emerged the victor with two wins. The Hoddermen clinched the third and final tilt by a 4-1 count.

CANTABS IMPROVED

Since that Placid series, the Cantabs have shown a marked improvement. Coach Hodder has his men covering closely and his defense taking a man-size belt at the attacking wings. Vin Freedley is the Crimson cage seems to have struck his stride, and the big net problem confronting the Johnnies looks to be settled.

The Tigers will skate out on the Arena surface with two Greater Boston boys winging the first wave. Tom Barnicle, the Framingham boy who prepped at Exeter, is the outstanding man on the club.

ROBBINS ON TIGERS

Over on the left side of the rink will be Pittsfield Mark Robbins. Other local boys touting the Tiger cause is husky Ben Fuller, defenseman from Milton. Charlie Tenney, a wing man from Lexington, and Al Fuller from Gleasondale.

Lion Tank Team Submerges Penn

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Columbia's swimming team submerged Pennsylvania, 46-29, to inaugurate the Eastern Intercollegiate League competition as the two team captains, Justin Callahan of Columbia and Paul Williams of Pennsylvania, starred as individual high scorers.

Winning five of the nine events, including the medley and the free-style relay events, the Lion mermen clinched the meet at the end of the eighth event, the 440-yard freestyle in which Maurice Poitras and Stephen Stavers of Columbia finished first and second respectively.

AMHERST ON TOP

AMHERST, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Amherst swimming team picked up 23 points in the last three events to defeat the Bowdoin Tankmen, 42-33. Captain White of Bowdoin, was the individual star, winning the 50 and 100-yard events.

Ruppert's Brother To Help Run Yanks

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—The sports world wondered today what effect the death of Col. Jacob Ruppert would have on the World Champion New York Yankees—the baseball club he helped buy for $450,000 in 1915 and built into a $15,000,000 enterprize.

In most quarters it was assumed that the energetic little bachelor who died at the age of 71 had made ample provision for the future of the baseball empire that brought him more satisfaction than the millions he made in beer and real estate.

The best bet seemed to be that a triumvirate would rule baseball's most valuable property—a triumvirate of Ed Barrow, 70-year-old club secretary; George Weiss, head of the Yankees' "farm" system, and George Ruppert, the Colonel's brother.

Officials estimated that, if Colonel Ruppert's net estate totals $70,000,000—associates said he was worth between $70,000,000 and $100,000,000—the federal and statae governments would take all but about $12,000,000 in taxes.

Whether this would have any effect on the future of the baseball properties was not determined.

Funeral services for the Colonel will be held Monday morning in St. Ignatius Loyola church with a solemn requiem mass.

Among the honorary pallbearers will be Albert Brennan, the Colonel's executive secretary; Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees; Mayor LaGuardia, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Senator Robert F. Wagner, and several baseball and business friends.

Mungo Screeches At $11,000 Cut

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, heir-apparent to baseball's holdout crown, spoke his piece today about the Brooklyn Dodgers' "ridiculous" salary offers—but the pitcher had a word of praise for Manager Leo Durocher.

"They didn't raise me $11,000 at a clip, and they aren't gonna cut me that much in one year," said the big right-hander whose fireball cooled off so much last season he won only four games.

"That much of a cut is ridiculous, and someone is guessing wrong if they expect me to sign a $5000 contract. And what's more, I won't take any more of those bonus contracts, either.

"Get one of those things and what happens? They won't let you work to get your bonus.

SENDS BACK SECOND

"Brooklyn will have to lay it on the line or they can find me at my home in Pageland, S. C., all summer. I'll just keep sending those contracts back until someone comes across."

Mungo and the Dodgers had the first round of their annual salary fight before he came here from Pageland to become an instructor in Joe Stripp's baseball school.

Brooklyn sent him a contract for $5000, and the hot-tempered pitcher fired it right back.

A second contract, which he put in the mail unsigned last night, was believed to have added an offer of a bonus if Mungo wins a specified number of games.

There was a lot of cheer for the Dodger faithful in Mungo's assertion that his ailing pitching arm he'owned for his disappointing performance last year, is feeling "young and healthy."

NO SOFT SOAP

"But let me tell you one thing, whether I'm with the club or not when the season opens, I'm pulling all the way for Leo Durocher. He'll make a great manager because he never was a guy to pass the buck.

"If Lippy's wrong he'll admit it where a lot of other guys will call you a dirty so-and-so for something that's their fault.

"Yeah, and let me tell you something else. I mean what I said about Durocher. I ain't trying to soft soap anybody into giving me a raise.

"And I ain't taking any $11,000 cut, either."

Lou Mayer

Didn't Make Offer

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—It developed the $1,000,000 "offer" received by Samuel D. Riddle for Man O' War did not come from Louis B. Mayer personally but from a man who represented himself as secretary to the Hollywood movie producer.

While a spokesman for Mayer was terming as "ridiculous" such an offer for America's most famous thoroughbred sire, Harrie B. Scott, manager of Riddle's Faraway Farms at Lexington, recalled that last summer a visitor at the farm said he was "in a position to offer a million dollars" for "Old Red."

Fast Field Toes Mark in Gotham

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Meet records are bound to go tumbling tonight when some of the country's best runners compete on the fast new track of the 69th Regiment Armory in the annual games of the 165th Infantry.

The stars of the meet are entered in four invitation specials, in all of which Armory marks were set last year: The Father Duffy 600, won by Wesley Wallace of Fordham in 1:14.6; the 1000 won by Glenn Cunningham in 2:14.6; the three-quarter mile, won by Lou Burns, then of Manhattan, in 3:11.8, and the two-mile, captured by Don Lash in 9:11.

Of this foursome, only Cunningham, unable to make plane connections from Kansas, will not compete. Wallace, who set a world record of 1:04.4 for 500 meters a week ago, will attempt to repeat in the 600 and thus retire the Father Duffy Trophy; Lash will defend his two-mile honors, and Burns will switch to the 600. He was a fast-closing second to Wallace in the latter's record performance last Saturday.

Biscuit Workout Before Turf Fans

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (AP)—Seabiscuit, given his sternest trial spin since coming west to prepare for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, gave turf fans an added thrill when he worked out between races.

Believing rumors that he wasn't in good shape, the handicap king breezed five-eighths of a mile in 59.4 seconds. He went through the complete routine—receiving barn, paddock and starting gate—and worked with his stablemate, Advocator.
